Wimpy Kid
The End of the Wimp
2nd edition

!Disclaimer!

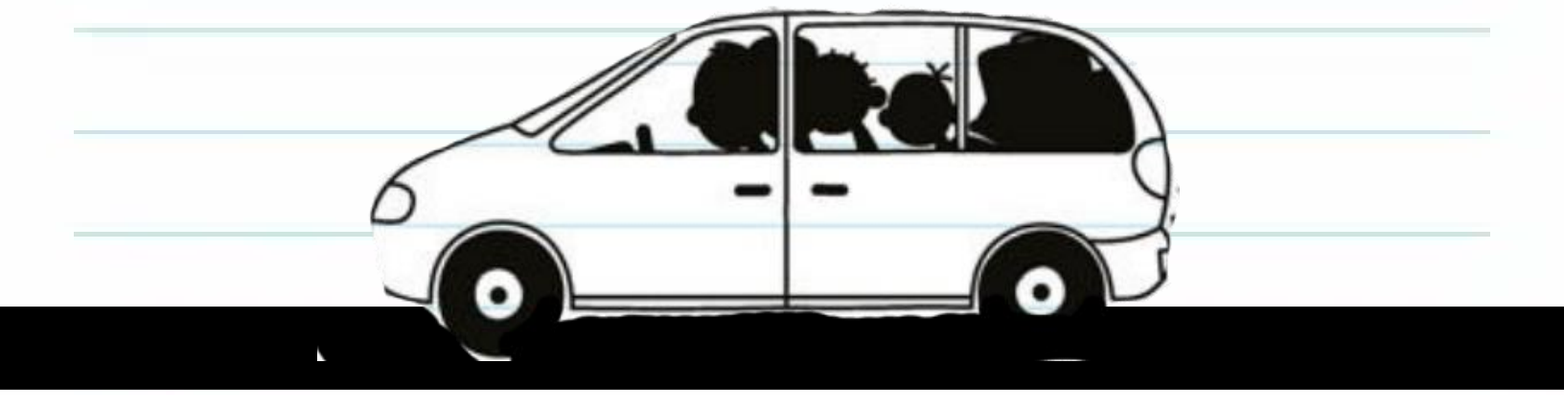
This wimpy kid book is not like any other where I try to survive middle school. But I rather try to survive a secret group that almost led to the end of the world. This book is filled with violent scenes and gruesome deaths and is not for readers up to 13+.

Based on some of the moments I had in the airport in Georgia and a Resort in Paracas, Peru.

To Masked Rider

Chapter 1

The vacation decision



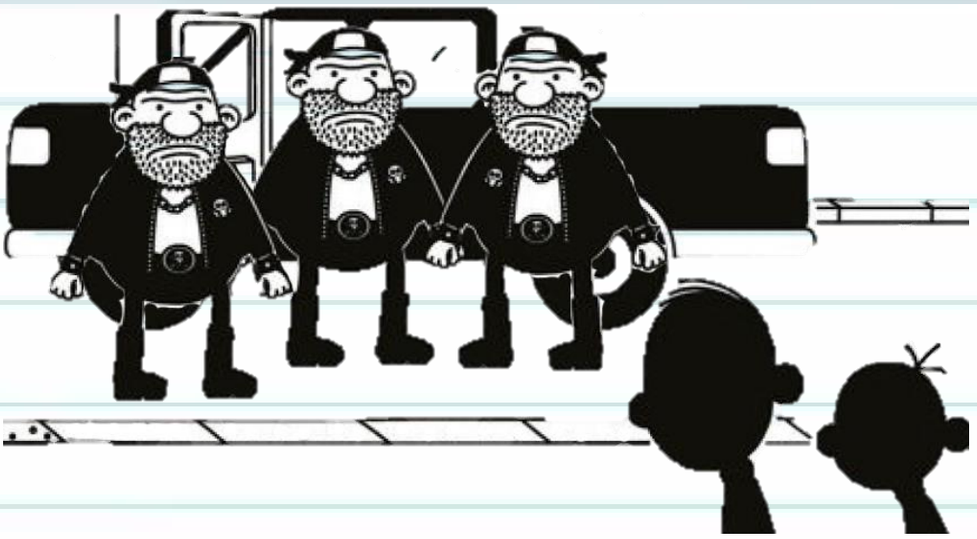
So it was June 14th, a warm summer of 2022. A summer that would've changed the course of history, the time of Covid was over and my parents decided to go to this island resort for vacation.

This was news to both me and my brothers because the last time we went on vacation, we were kicked out because of a mis understanding. But they were with this idea. So I guess we were gonna have another vacation disaster. I went to my room and hopped on to Discord to notify my best friend Rowley and my other buds, Chirag and Fregely that I couldn't hang out because of a recent change of plans with my family.

The next week were getting ready for our getaway, this time our parents avoided their mistakes they did the last time and planned ahead, like on what time they would leave home and so forth. So after finishing packing, we left off for the airport at around 4:00pm for our flight starts at 7:00pm, and due to no holidays being around the corner of our calendars so there won't be any type of traffic blocking our time. The ride to the airport was pretty smooth. As said before, there was no traffic and it was smooth sailing for what would supposed to be 2 hours went on like 45 minutes.

We finally arrived at the airport and it was full but not as full as last time. At this moment, I think that this vacation wouldn't be such a failure as the last time. Dad parked the car in the main parking lot, but Mom and Manny decided to head on to the baggage deposit area to get it over, while me, Rodrick, and Dad pay for the parking spot and take out the more simpler luggage out of the car. As we were heading to the main door, a ford f150 came speeding at us as if the driver wanted to run us over.

Dad jumped and told us to step aside, the driver would park at an area. Angrily, dad went up to the truck and kicked it. The same mistake that he did 4 years ago, when will he learn from his mistakes. The driver came out of his truck and was ready to confront dad, we were about to do the "When Heffleys get in trouble, Heffleys RUN!"

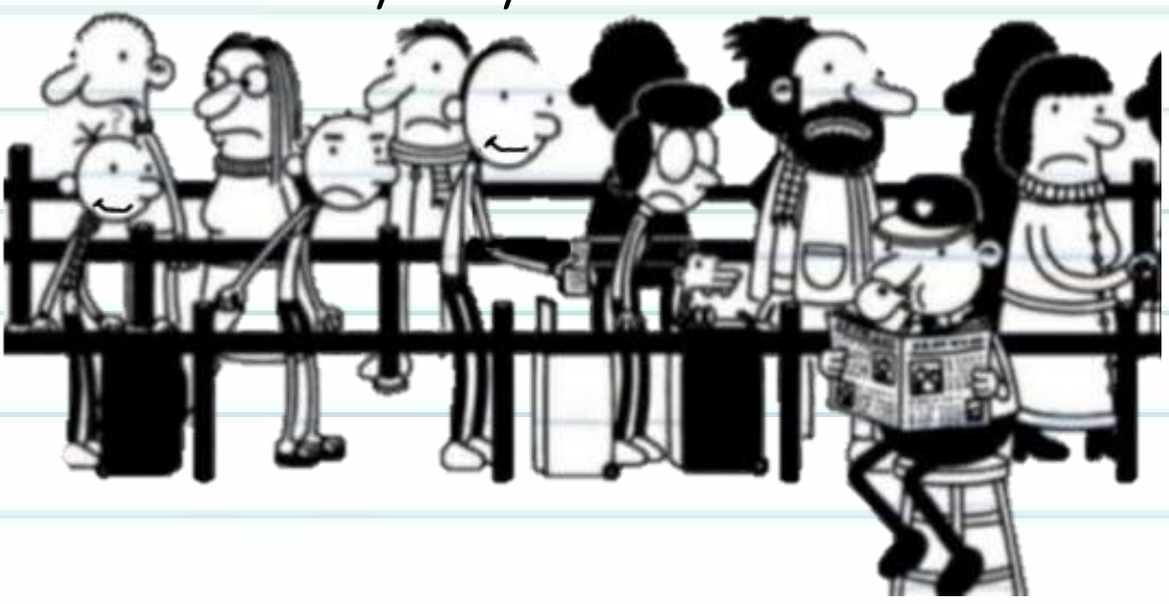


The thing was, there were three more of those truck drivers behind our backs. At that moment, I knew we were messed up. So I decided to build up the courage to give a blow to the face on one of the drivers, knowing that I'd just hurt my hand and they'd just beat us up. But the thing was that the moment I finished the punch, he groaned and covered his face, the moment he saw his hand, it was filled with blood. At that moment, I just found out that my wimpyness "disappeared." I told Rodrick and Dad to leave,

And I punched the 2nd driver and he fell into the ground. The 1st driver ran up to me with a broken bottle, ready to stab me, I gave him the same punch and he also fell onto the ground. I saw the third and fourth driver run up to me, one of them had a small pistol. "wait!? How did he smuggle that into the airport, now with the heavy guarding." But I knew if I just start thinking ideas, a bullet would go through my stomach, so I had to think quick.

The 4th driver tried to shoot me but I ducked under the cars. While thinking what to do with the third one, I found a stone, it looked sorta dull, but it could give the shooter a small concussion. I grabbed it and ran towards him. He shot a few times but I some how dodged them, don't ask me how I did it, but I did, the 3rd driver was reloading, so I used that moment to pounce. When he finished reloading, the final thing he saw was my hand with a rock and he fell. Now, I just had to think on the 4th one, but he looked scared, seeing how I survived all the other attacks, so he ran away. Now that I was free from fighting, I could now enter the airport, but while I was walking, I saw a man, in a hat, dressed pretty formally. I had a suspicion that maybe he hired some guys to come and kill me, probably kill my brother and my parents.

So I walked with caution into the airport. I met with my family inside the airport, I looked around in case of a random attack, but nothing. My parents were placing the big luggage on the luggage carrier, and to our luck, the bags were in a normal weight, guess my mom learned from her mistakes. When we finished with it, we proceeded to the waiting line to go to the security check up place. I was pretty nervous about going here, because the last time some jerk made the entire mess, we were the ones to blame, I don't know why they did it.



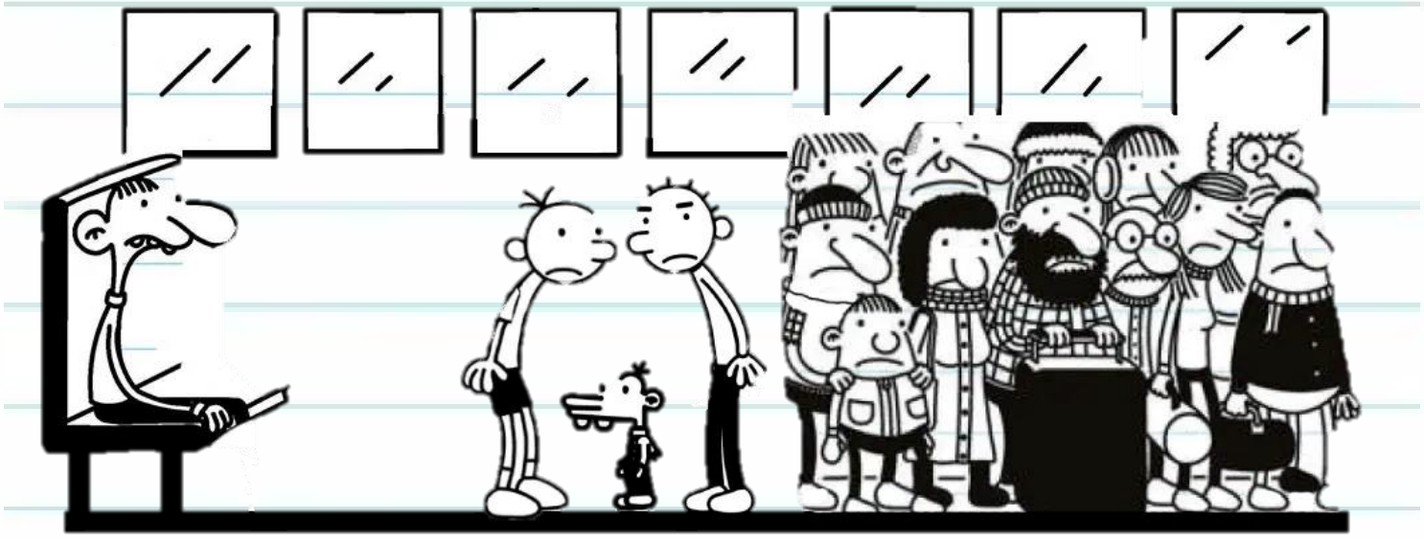
We finally got through the waiting line and got into the security check up place. It went pretty fast because first of all, Mom was holding Manny by the hand and this time I made my research, turns out that the scanner does really only check your clothes and not the body's interior.

As we finally got our final small carry on luggage from the security scans, we decided to shop at the duty free store. Mom went there and got some protective sunscreen and a few makeup stuff. Rodrick and I went to go and get some candies for the long 18 hour trip. Because, even though the island is in south American Territory, it had a weird tectonic movement. Reaching to far places like India.

But right now it's 100,000 miles off the coast of Brazil. But time was running out to continue shopping for it was 6:04pm and we needed to head out to the "Plane-Train" a new implement into the airport, a small train that goes through various parts of the airport close to terminals far away.

We ran to the escalator to go down to the main "Plane-Train" terminal. But then the stupidity began, When we came down, some guy tripped and we all fell down and that took some time to place back everything we've pack, and it took like 3 minutes. Dad was pretty tense for he didn't want to be late and went on the left side.

the people entered and then after a minute, the doors closed.

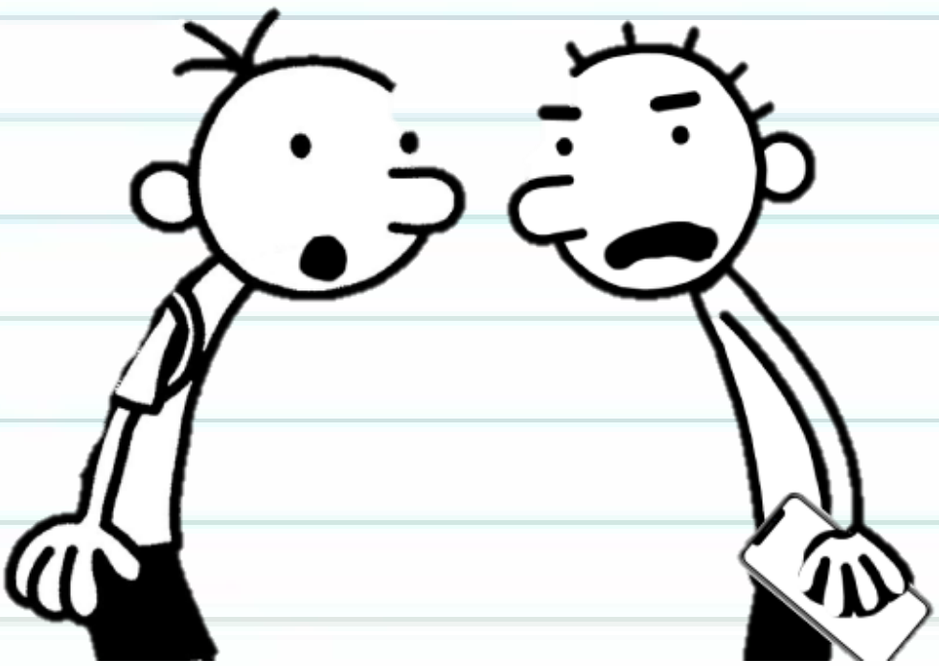


And the announcer said "We are now leaving Terminals A, B, C and will arrive at Terminals D, and E." The Plane-Train" would then speed off, it was pretty fast but not as fast to make me dizzy.

Rodrick came up to me with his phone and told me that he wanted to show me something, I came up to him and he showed me his phone. A archeological article taking about an item called "The Spear of Power." At first I thought he was just messing with me, but after a while, it began to make sense in me. It talked about the forging of the Spear in the 15th week after the exodus.

The destructed civilizations from the wrath the "God's Perfect Race", the attempted assassinations of the 7 Pharisees which only 3 of them survived, the boat ride to the island what we were going, and the look for the spear commanded by Hitler back in 1940 – 1943 after some of the German Diggers found some forbidden scrolls of the Old Testament. The spear was never found, as for the story of the Pharisees escaping their lands during Roman "invasion" was never written.

After reading this, Rodrick looked at me and said that there is a massive mystery in the island resort, as for many who went to the resort came back said about meeting their favorite tv show and movie characters. I was surprised and my hopes went high to go there. After our little chat.



A kid around the age of 16 came to me, and started asking me questions, it was pretty weird for no one really cared for our existence. He started asking me questions about what I've read. At the second I just thought he was just curious. But then, I saw his arm, it had a red bandage with a white circle, then it clicked to me. Those guys who attacked me and the man with a black hat.

I think these people weren't just some guys had a grudge onto our family, I think that the luggage incident from 2017 is causing this, we probably messed with the wrong family. Before the kid could say anything else, he saw that I was nervous, and right before he could've give me the sleep hit, I gave a big punch, somehow not triggering the crowd. As the doors open, the kid fell, and before the police could pin me down, I just rolled up the kid's sleeve just for notice. And we were on our way.

A flight to remember

Our Family went up the escalator, Dad looked on his watch and said "just in time." for it was 6:34 and Terminal E, section 12 was just in front of us. Rodrick looked a bit nervous. When we got to section 12, Rodrick finally had the guts to start speaking. He said "Kid, are you really sure that you want to find this spear, like first off, you're still heart broken ever since that valentines day Holly Hills broke up with you. And when you fainted back in your friends hangout because of the heart break. A fun hangout is one thing, but fighting dangerous people looking for an ancient artifact could get you killed!" "Nonsense!" I said, "the time has passed, and I may find another girl but I will never forget that kiss she gave me back at the Christmas Ball of 2021. Also I'm hyped to meet those characters from all the tv shows and movies in the island." The announcer said that the doors for the entrance to the airplane are open. the Pilots and the Flight attendants came out of the door and new batch came in, and they looked pretty chill, not the like one in Christmas with their faces on the floor. The people came out and after a while, the announcer said that the special seats passengers were available for boarding. I was pretty surprised that when she called for the special seats, our family started moving. I asked Dad how this was possible and he said that the seats were pretty cheap, the thing was that it the upper deck of the plane so it was pretty tight with the seat count so I got 5 seats and now there's only 10 seats that are now taken. I was pretty impressed that the ultra comfy seats were this time, the most cheapest.

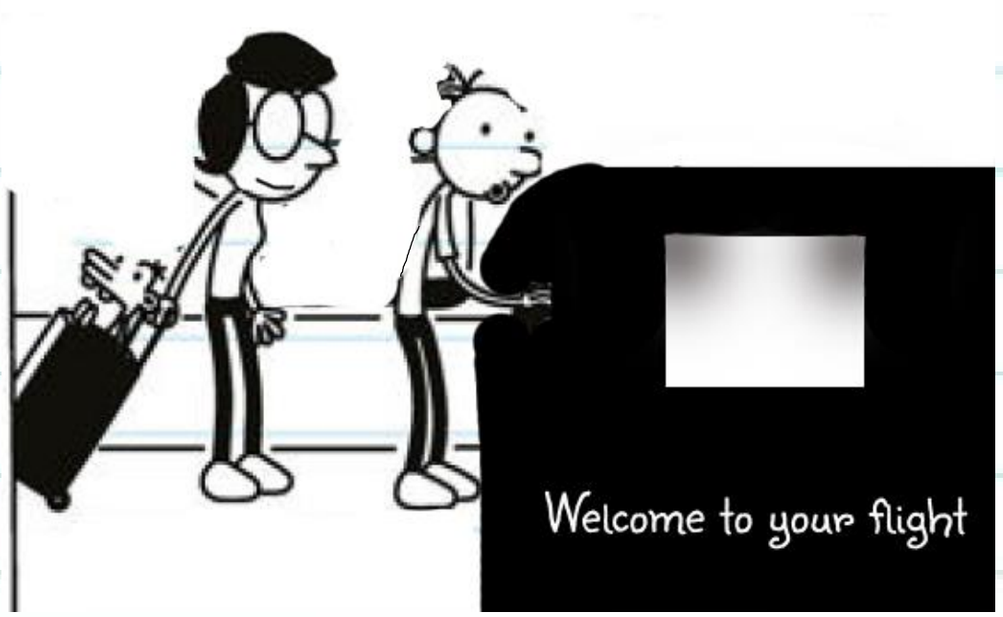
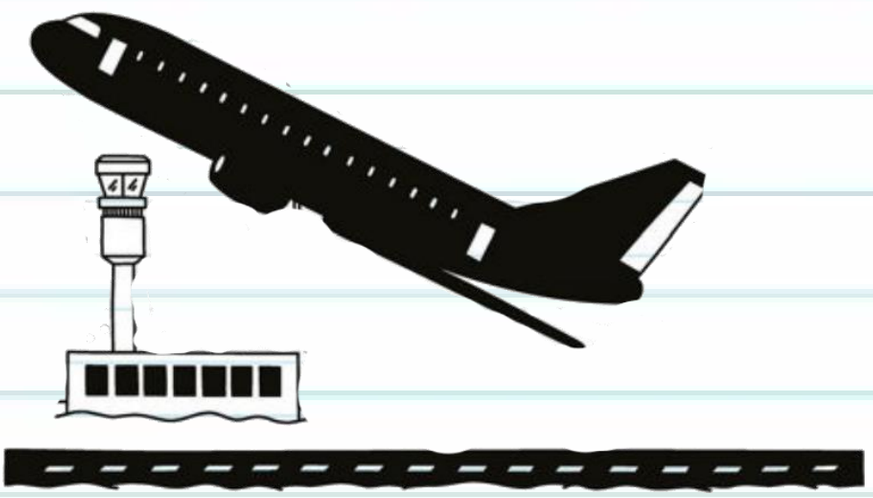
The announcer said that all passengers are ready to proceed. As I entered the plane, I passed through the business class, and felt sorta jealous. Dad glanced over me, and said my expectations can surprise me. And it did, because the moment I laid foot on the upper deck of the plane, I was astonished by the modernity it had. One of the attendants greeted me and accompanied to my seat.



It was like one of those platinum seats from first class Delta Airlines, the small "room seat" was futuristic, and it also had buttons for massaging in various part of the body also the seat looked very comfortable in general. Rodrick also had his own seat, didn't need to share a seat with Mom, Dad, and Manny. The best part was that there were slidable doors meaning, 100% privacy!

There was also a screen in the front of my seat. I thought it would be like the generic ones from last flight, but the flight attendant said it the room had a noise cancelling function so no sound could leave the room itself, also containing surround sound that just makes the experience better, also including the fact that the screen was re-sizable, meaning that it could be in another dimension.

The pilot went onto the intercom and said the plane finished boarding and that everyone should go to their seats. I was nervous, because I didn't want to feel that nausea like last time. But as the attendant said, the plane has booth smooth take off.

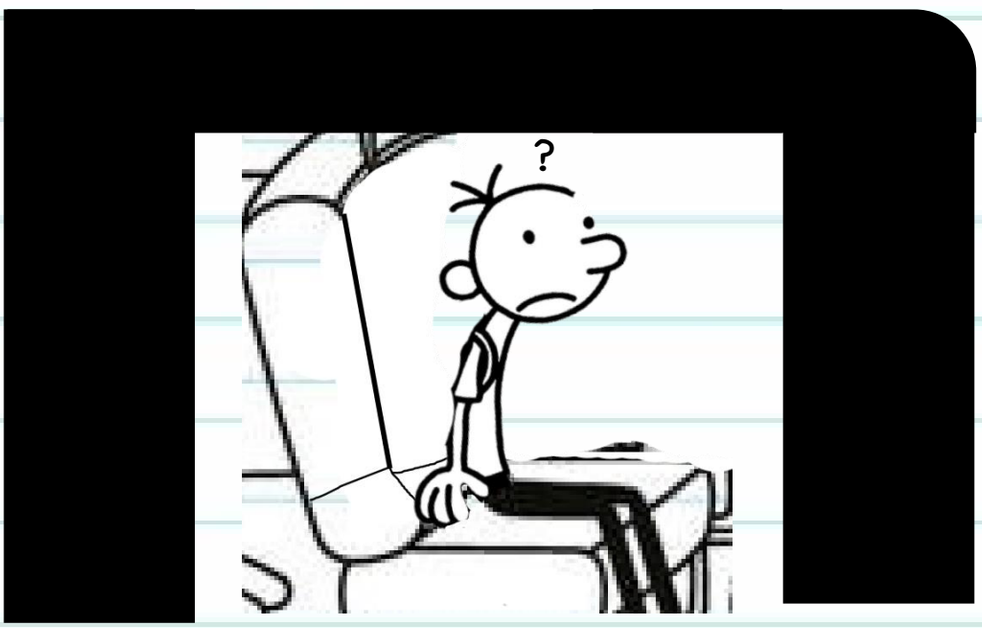


As I was closing the sliding door, there was someone looking at me, it looked wolf-like. I just thought it was a furry, but the wolf like style looked way to real to be a wolf mask and a onesie. It looked liked the wolf from that movie I saw. At this point, I bought the myth of the tv show/movie characters existing in that island.

I closed my sliding door and looked out of the window, the safety video played, but I didn't really care about it. The sun was setting and the plane was starting to rise. I didn't feel any type of nausea, I was pretty impressed, the room was small but it felt cozy rather than claustrophobic. I turned on the screen and I found

Out that there was like 10,000+ movies and tv shows. After a while, one of attendants came with the food menu. And just looking at it, I was just drooling on the card. I was craving for some Italian but there was various other international food options, so I ordered the full meal course, it started with some bread with olive oil dressing, then the appetizers came, and boy it was the best fried calamari that I ever ate, then came some pastas, a big Florentine steak, and a good looking pizza margarita.

Boy I was stuffed after that 3 hour meal and watching one my favorite films. But after every good meal comes the urging feeling of going to the bathroom. I remembered that my seat had a built in toilet that doesn't smell and had water jets. Turns out mine was broken.



When I pressed the help button, one of the attendants came and asked me what was wrong. I told them of the broken built in toilet, they said that they took it in consideration and they're debugging the code to make the toilet work. Wow I didn't know that it required to learn code just to give other people a premium dump.

So I decided to go to the bathroom area that people usually go. there was already a bathroom place in the upper deck of the plane in case a situation like this happened. I was wondering if it would be like a little apartment like the other plane, and it turned out that I was correct, probably it was a bit more larger, and there were three stand up stalls and a normal toilet, blocked out with some privacy walls. I went up to the normal toilet and it was really clean. It was one of those Japanese seats. Just like the one that sorta replicates my seat.

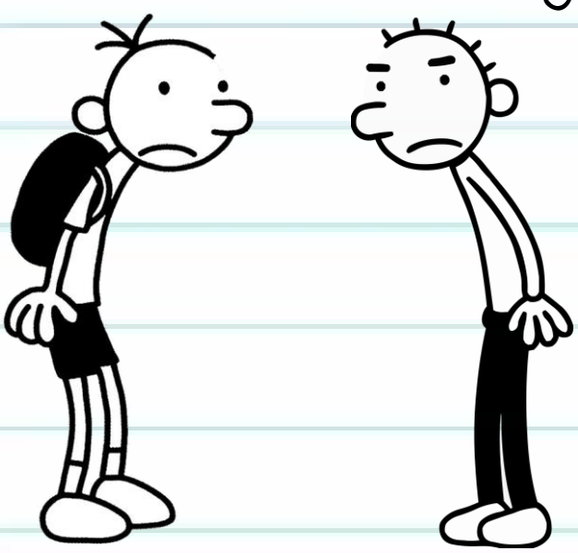
Boy that was one great dump that I gave out, there was even a sign that said, that I'm saving the environment by pooping, because it had a mechanism that does composting without the terrible smell. As I finished, Rodrick came in unexpectedly. Turns out he didn't know that he had a comfortable toilet prebuilt in his seat. He was pretty astonished when I told him that news, but he also said that he wanted to talk to me... Again.



He began by saying "Are you really sure you want to embark on this adventure? Even if you're not heartbroken anymore, you still have a chance of being killed in a fight, probably you may never find it." I told him "I did some research on my laptop during the first 3 hours of the flight. Locating various parts of the island that possibly contain the 3 parts of the Spear of Power." "What happens if you're wrong, and you don't find it and you waste your" vacation on looking for something that may not even exist?

How do you even believe that thing exists." said Rodrick. I replied to him "I just feel it in my guts, that something is in danger and I'm chosen to save it." There was a uncomfortable moment of silence, then Rodrick finally said "your choice..." and he went back to his seat. I wondered for a while and then I thought that it was nothing and went back to my seat.

The rest of the flight was pretty straightforward, no flight bumps or major turbulence, and the movies were pretty good. And the breakfast was also a delight. I will never forget those great French toasts that I've eaten.

But as all good things have a start, it also has an end. The plane landed on the island at around 6:30am est. And boy was I tired, from sleeping 3 hours, but at least they were a comfortable 3 hours. The co-pilot finally said that we have landed on the main airport of Isla de Corales. The sudden streak of the warm sunlight caught my skin, but it wasn't a warmth that I felt back in Surrey street, but a really fun and delightful tropical warmth, and that I knew that my adventure had begun.

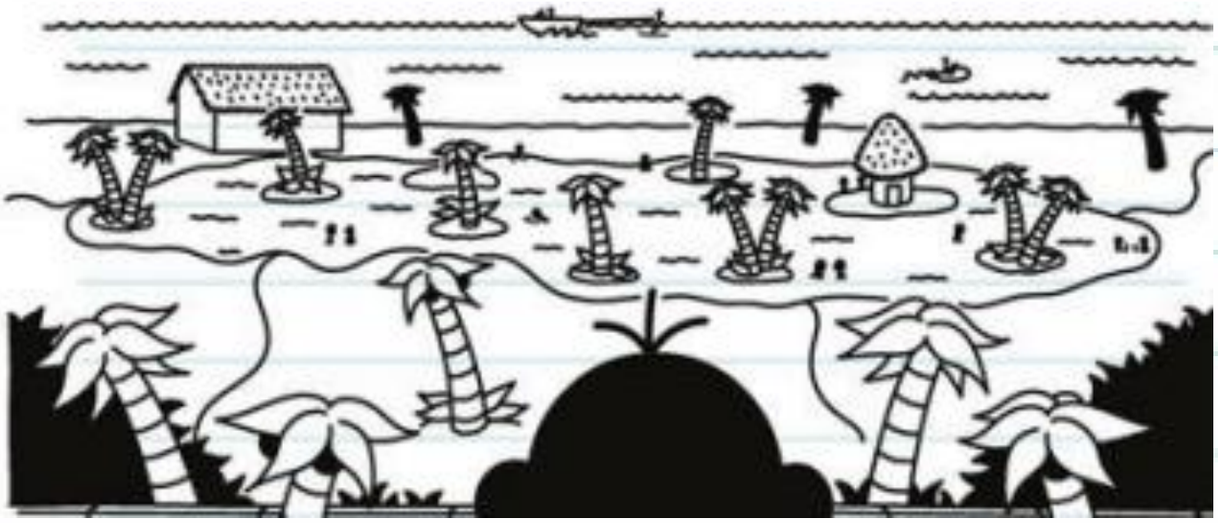
A visit on the Resort



I got out of the plane to see a entirely better version of the previous island, I think these guys were better in their job of constructing the resort. So I had high hopes of this trip being a better one. We were guided by some tour guiders to these karts like the ones in the airport, that would bring us to a train that would bring us to our main hub being the two incredibly high and futuristic like hotel towers. The karts finally came our destination, the station. We entered to one of the train cars, in the heavily modern shinkansen like train, we sat down and just by sitting down I was re-welcomed to that sweet feeling of sitting on that comfy chair.

The train started to move. And I was greeting the most beautiful scenery of the resort, the attractions, the swim pools and more. I just simply knew this resort was going to be the best trip ever. But I still didn't see any sight of the tv show/movie characters anywhere, I'd probably meet some later on the trip. But now it was time to enjoy the rest of the ride. We've finally came to our destination being the hub area and got out of the train. Now I was excited to see our hotel room. After passing a small security check up station, we've finally came to "the hub" area. The place where there' some stores and the two giant hotel towers.

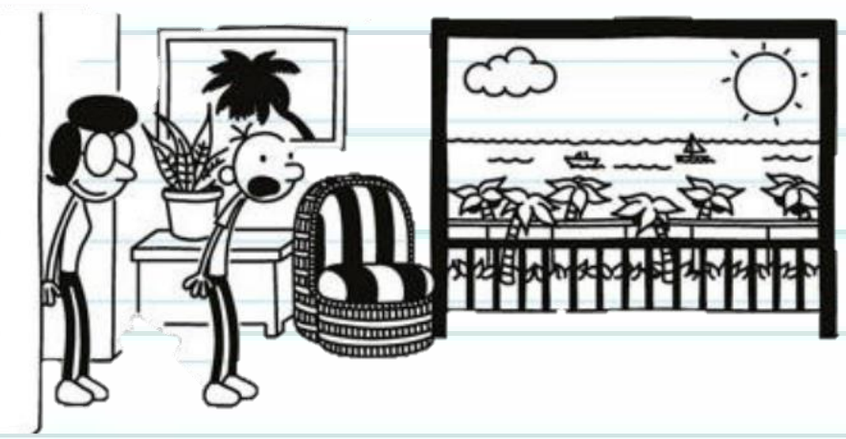
Before we could even enter, some attendants came and gave us some really good tasting topical smoothies and buying cards, they said that it was connected with my dad's credit card. I asked him how they know their info. But dad said not to worry for he actually set that up, and the best part is that we get our own card, the thing is that we had a restriction so me and Rodrick had to use our money with caution of not spending everything.

We finally entered the hotel lobby of building 1, dad check us in and the worker said that our room was in the high area. I was shocked that we were getting very great rooms and seating place.



But dad had an answer for everything. He said that it all just good luck, plus that he got a gigantic raise plus a promotion in his job. It was reasonable so I just left it behind my worries.
The worker said we needed to take the elevator, we entered and dad pressed the button to go to floor 49, the elevator was actually pretty fast than any other type of elevator. We finally got to floor 49 and it had around 25 hotel rooms but most of the rooms were places for spa, jacuzzi, sports and other types of in-hotel amenities. It was time to check our rooms. Turns out that there were 4 rooms, one for me, one for Rodrick, one for Manny, and one for our parents. I checked out mine, and I was astonished that it looked like my dream room my parents were planning to do later on this year. Lots of posters of my favorite games and shows, a full blown gaming pc setup right in the corner of my room, and the bed was so comfy and all in white, and the best part was that I had my own restroom and it came with a hot tub and my own robe... Man! It's like these knew what I liked, and the best part of my room was that it had an epic view of the resort, top down and also the view of the sea was jaw dropping.

Anyways, I felt bored so we decided to go out and explore the area for a while.

We got out of the hotel and went to the hub, there we went to one of the stores that was around the area, even though we had the necessary items for a vacation getaway.

After a good 30 minutes of buying more sunscreen and other sun protecting items and more beach toys for Manny, we were now on our way to the resorts amenities. As we passed through the tall trees and finally entered the resort itself, it was filled with pools and water slides, and many restaurants and so much more. I first wanted to check the outdoor jacuzzi. At first I thought that it would be filled with screaming kids hard playing around, but to my luck, it was empty and only some were filled with young couples just chatting around. So I thought maybe if I do get a girl friend, I could relax with her. But it was now time to enter to the beach, which dad had rented a cabana for us. We finally got to the beach and by far I was impressed by how clean and relaxing it felt, there was kids but it wasn't as crazy as the last time. I think that this time, Dad was trying to make up for his mistakes, and I appreciated it, and all my family probably did appreciated it. After a few moments in the cabana, I finally decided to wade a while in the beach, and swim for a while, which I did for a while, the water was cool and relaxing, the feeling was so good and just by swimming in it, the feeling of crowdedness and chaos wasn't present unlike the other time in the other resort.

After the small wade in the pool, it was time to try out of the water slides located in the "ultra fun" district of the really entertaining resort.

The mood of the resort changed from a calm one to a really fun mood, but not in a crazy 9 year old kid style but still really fun. Mom and Manny went to the small kid attractions that sorta reminded me of the pool place with the mini pirate ship. But the only difference was that there was no pirate ship but there was a large play house like building filled with water traps and a tunnel under it that is connected to the lazy river that stars a few steps from where I am. But that would be a fun for Manny for I was going to the big rides.

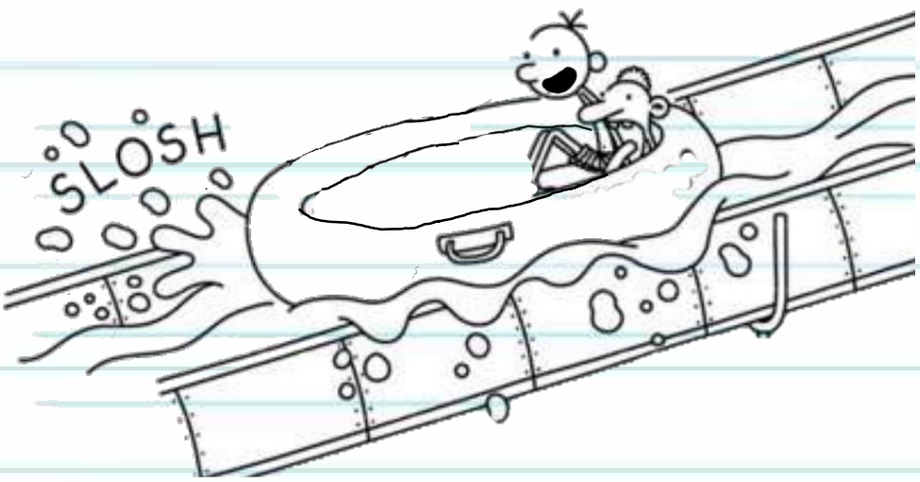
Because this was a resort, and it already had a surplus of rides and other amenities, the slides didn't have names for some reason, but they were fun, who ever engineered this was really creative and fun loving. The first ride I went to was 60ft in the sky, pretty tall for a teen, and when I was first to enter, the worker who controlled the ride said "have fun, if you can..." I was pretty nervous, but the moment I wanted to get out, the ride started. It began with a quick splash of water ejecting me into the tunnel.



From there everything was dark, and it was so fast, that my hands had no controlled and my eyes were covered with water, but after a while, the speed decreased a bit and the tunnel became transparent and I could see a great panoramic view of the west side of the resort, filled with more stores, restaurants, and private hotel rooms but I was also greet to many violent turns left and right, and even some that was open aired. I thought that I'd fall out of it, but I didn't. I re-entered another transparent tunnel that was fully closed, and I thought it was downhill from it, but no, there was a small loop coming forward to me. I braced as hard as I can, and hoping that I would not fall face down on the upper side of the loop, but the speed was so uncontrollable, that I survived the loop. After that, things went a bit steadier, I entered a non transparent tunnel, that brought me to this room. The water was shooting out in a spiral form and it made me go round and round until I entered a hole, which from there on, went very downhill, after 10 seconds of darkness and speed, I could finally see the exit hole, I braced myself again for the fall, and I came zooming out of the other side of the ride, and I fell in great speed into a large pool that acted like a safe fall maker for me.

It was a great ride, and I did went to some more crazier ones after that one, but this one would always be saved in my mind for the rest of my life.

After some hours of fun, the time also went with it and I began to feel hungry, everyone else also felt hungry too, so we went out to search for a fancy restaurant, luckily we came prepared, Dad did check the luggage before picking them up just in case and I did remember that we brought in some fancy clothes for these cases.

We went back to our hotel room and placed our clothes, and then we headed off to the West side of the resort. The West side wasn't as different than the east side, only that it was more calm and more high end, although the east side had their high end parts too. We went to this restaurant that I didn't remember the name due

To there being many people partying around and cheering and dancing. We finally entered and the restaurant and it looked very modern and sleek, the waiter said we could sit at this table, and it was very big and the seats were comfy but still elegant, as we saw the menu cards, I was locked in a state of endless hunger for all the meals that they served sounded and looked delicious, and this was the first moment that I met the tv show and movie characters, there were many of them. Varying from all types of characters from all around the world that everyone loves.

But there were too many of them so I decided to leave it for later. I decided to order the specialty fish course and the 30 minute wait was worth it. Because of simply eating the first bit brought me into a state of joy! The rest of the food was pretty good, the appetizers which was a mixture of all types of sea calamari and the dessert was spectacular, a triple layer chocolate cake.

After the meal. We decided to go back to our room. Our adventure would continue my adventure tomorrow, if today was fine I don't think nothing bad will happen tomorrow.

Something bad happens

I woke up from my very comfy bed. Feeling a bit lazy and also felt that feeling of worriedness. But I thought that was nothing except a weird feeling from that moment from the airport. So I decided to calm down a bit by playing some tennis. After a long walk passing the shops and attractions and other resort items I finally came to the tennis court.

I asked the manager if I could rent some balls and a racket. After getting the items, I went in, but something was wrong, as if a sixth sense was building up on me that danger is close, but I ignored it. But when I came in, I knew I was in danger. The kids that were playing stopped and looked at me. The door closed an I knew that something bad would happen, I just knew it. One of kids who were staring at me came out a bit familiar. He was one of the kid who was in the other resort years ago. He said "there he is!

The kid who ruined my previous vacation after his stupid little brother almost killed me and my family with that box jellyfish! After him!!!" I was shocked, many of the kids started throwing the tennis balls at me. I tried to dodge it but there was to many of them. So the only option I had was to fight back at them.

I grabbed one of the balls and started to throw it back at them. I've probably hit one or two of the kids, one got hit in the head and fell hurt, but there was still like 17 of them and they now had one of those tennis ball cannons used for training and it was pointed right at me!

All the kids were attacking me and I didn't know why. Most of these kids that were attacking me was never in that other resort and to state the fact that some were half my age. But I didn't have enough time for thinking for those kids were beginning to pick up nearby rocks to throw it at me. I needed to think on what to do! So, after throwing a few tennis balls at them.

I took one of the small rocks and I placed it inside the tennis ball launcher, I was afraid one of the kids would tackle me and remove the rock, but before they could even do it, the launcher broke and the cannon part made an "explosion" but it was more of a small boom with no major destruction, but many of the kids were startled, so I took this as my chance to escape. I ran to the gate walls and climbed up. The kids were still trying to neutralize me with the rocks, but luckily I got to the top of the gate and climbed down. The kids were beginning to run and trying to catch me. I locked the door and ran to one of the guards. I told one of them

About the attack from the kids. The guard went into the court and when I entered, the kids had escaped from the scene. The guard shot me a dirty look and left. I felt vey embarrassed, how could there be no security cameras. But then I saw the cameras, they were destroyed, ripped out and only cables to be seen. So before I got into trouble, I decided to leave and relax for a while.

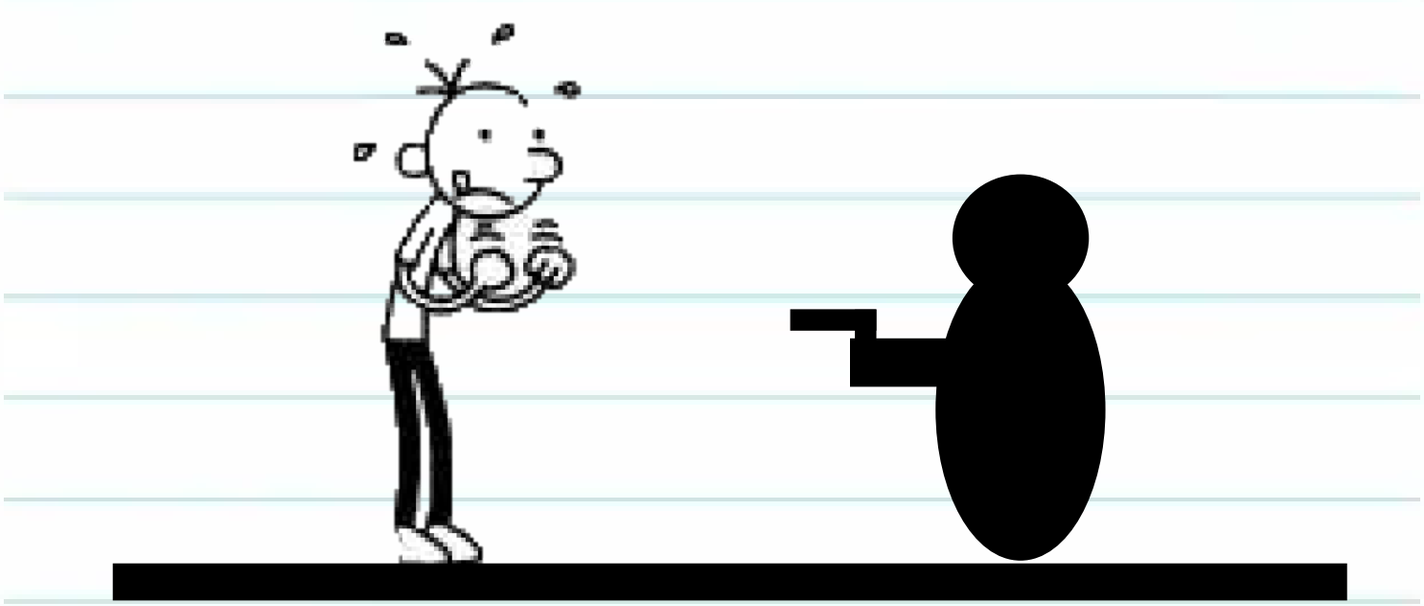
I got to the spa area to get a massage and a moment in the Spa. I got to the area and asked for a session, but they said they only made massages to 18 year old. So I decided to go to the spa area. It was outdoors and the sun was still radiating heat. Luckily there were some areas that were free. So I used it as my chance to relax. But after a while, I left to the gym.

As I entered the gym, there were many sections, one for lifts, one for ellipticals, another for swimming, another basketball, etc... But there was one for self defense. I found myself interested in that section so I entered. When I got in there and, I found in a room with training dummies, some in fighting positions, some holding fake guns. There were also platforms for aiming.

And that's where I met my trainer. I couldn't believe my eyes, it was the character that I saw back in that movie.

It was Puss in Boots...

But the DreamWorks version from the Shrek universe. He greeted me and said that we should begin the training. I was surprised for I just came in, and I didn't sign up for the class. Turns out we don't need to. He gave me a sword, and began to teach me. He said, "in the use of a weapons in this situation, just swing it around, but with force!" I looked at the dummies in their fighting positions. I swung the sword around and found out that the dummies were sliced. A trap door opened and the broken dummies were disposed and a new batch fell from the roof. We moved on to the next group. It was the dummies that had the fake guns. He then said, "In a situation like this, you must first fight personally the enemy disarm them, and then strike."



With this, I speed walked to one of the dummies and punched it, and disarmed it and sliced it, the same went to the others. Puss, then did a high jump and I had to follow him by the stairs. We got into a mini sword fight, luckily the swords themselves were dull. He threw me a mini pistol and said, "use wisely." And 2 minutes of fighting, we got into a sword lock. I got out the pistol and shot at one of the sand bags, from one shot, the platform began to fall. It wasn't a giant fall, but we were both shaken by the fall.

After a while, he congratulated me for my courage and bravery, this surprised me, I'm usually the wimp who ran from that 5-year-old who chase me and Rowley with a stick.

He gave me the pistol that I used for practiced. "This is something rare that I do for almost 1 in a million people who has this opportunity," he said. He continued with, "When the time is ready I may be part of a quest!" I felt thanked but somewhat confused. I said my thanks and left.

Chapter 5

The bar/restaurant fight

As the day slowly and gradually became night. We went to this hill top restaurant. It was on the side of the mountain, which was pretty cool.

As I ate my steak. I was looking at one of the waitresses. It was also a familiar face that I seen in a movie, she was a Tiger, good looking but not overly sexual. It took me for a while to recognize who she was.

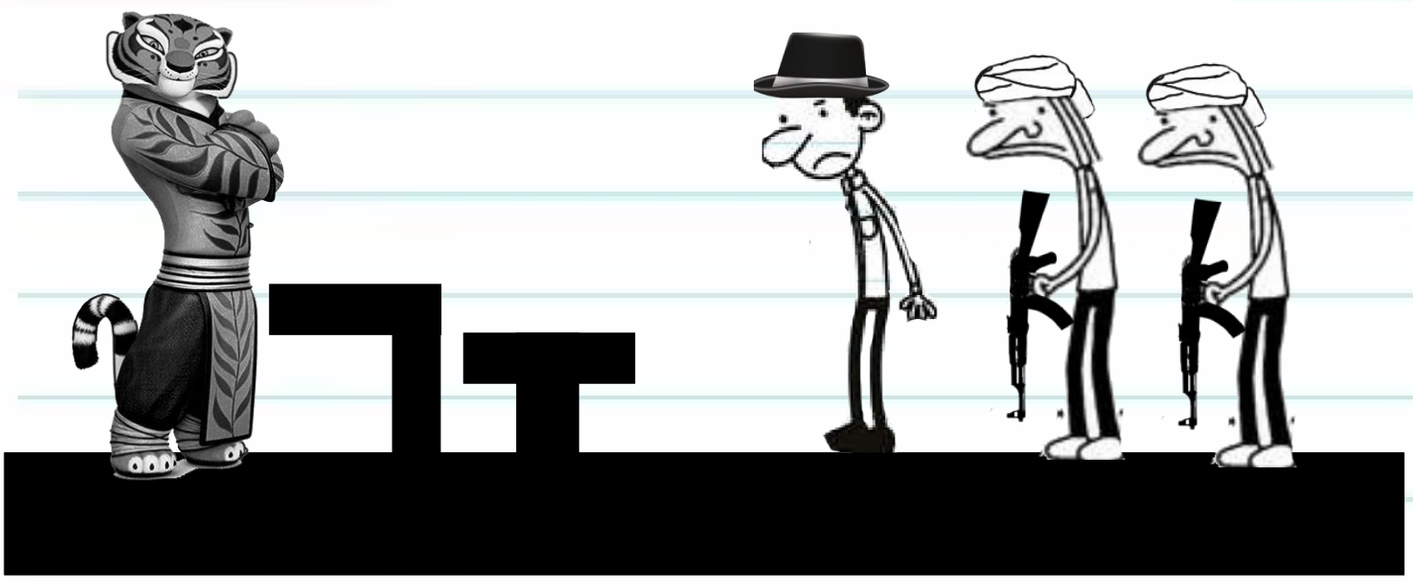
Until it hit me. Tigress! I was some how fell in love with her, not in a zoophile way, but it a way you love your friend. I asked my parents if it was ok if I could stay for a while and make some images to post with my group server on Discord. My parents hesitantly but they allowed me.

After a while with photos. I came up with all the bravery in the world and said hi to her. She also said hi, in a friendly voice. We came in a small conversation until I saw her chest. I asked me where she got it. She said that she got it as a gift from her father, he was an archeologist and found this in a dig site in the outskirts of Israel. I don't know what it's used for. I nodded, then I told her a bit about the Spear of Power. The minute I mentioned about it.

She gave me a slap in the face. After a 15 second pause, I left. She began to pick up the dishes because the restaurant was closing. But before it closed, some people came in.

"What do you want!" She said. Nothing just a Scotch, the man said, he was dressed up in a formal black suit. Then came two beings Kuromi and that wolf from the plane, then 4 brawlers, they looked dangerous.

I saw them from a distance, so I ran back. "I came here not just for some Scotch. I came here for your artifact, the young teen was talking about it a few minutes ago." As Tigress was playing on her Nintendo DS, she paused the game and then said, "why is it much of an importance?"



He filled with fury and grabbed her by the ears and got her close to the fire pit, then two brawlers came in and continued with his job.. Two of the brawlers kept her tight as the man came back with a burning rod. "You tell me anything you have about this artifact." He said holding a hot iron rod.

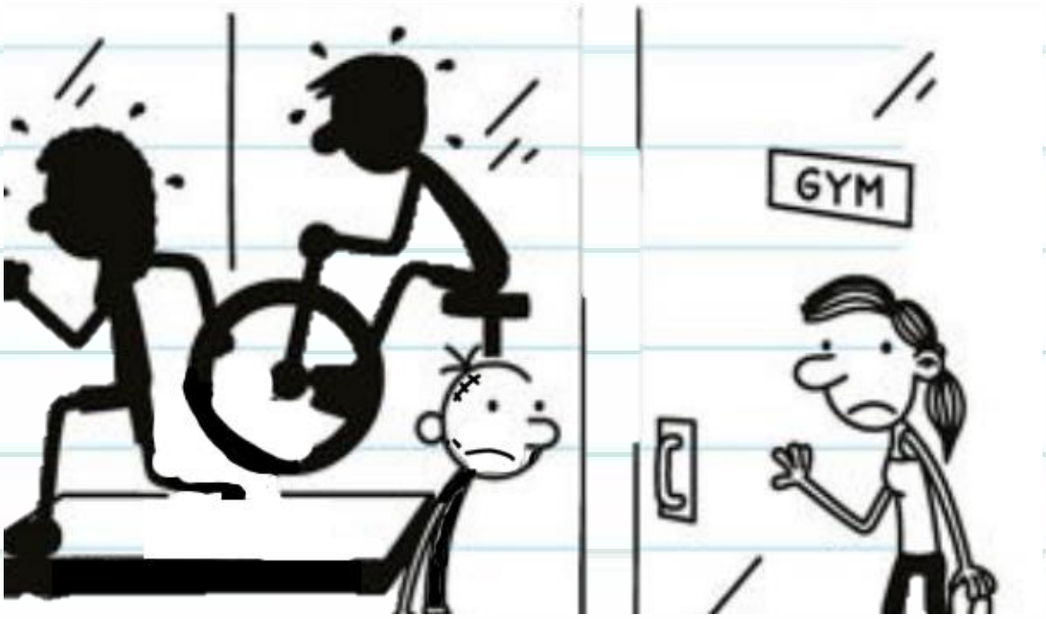
But before he could hit her with it. A gunshot was heard and the iron rod flew out his hand and landed into the restaurant.

"Let her go, or hell will rampage here!" The iron rod gave flames to one of the curtains. Kuromi and the wolf, not wanting a fight, fled the restaurant. The man also fled, and I remembered him, he's the father the Kid from the suitcase mix up. The four Brawlers began to shot at me, I ran to the interior of the restaurant, tipped over one of the tables and hid. One of the brawlers began to come closer to me as I loaded my pistol. When I finished, I got out the pistol and shot him right in the heart, at the minute the bang was heard, he fell. Two of the brawlers came to the bar area, they had machine guns. They began to shoot at me and I ducked, I didn't know what to do. When I was about to rise and shoot, one of the brawlers got his head hit by Tigress because she threw a empty alcohol bottle.

She was then slapped in the face by the other brawler and before he could shoot me, I shot at one of the hanging lamps and it fell on him, the spark of the electricity went everywhere making the fire that has already spread to the roofs. Me and Tigress began to flee the burning building. But before we could leave the last brawler pointed his machine gun at us. It was like the usual gun duel cowboys usually have. Luckily there was a burning wood supporter that was on the roof, I shot at the dangling wires and it fell on him. We then escaped as there was also a gas leak and

The whole restaurant exploded. Due to the explosion, we fell. As we began to bring ourselves up from the grass, Tigress exclaimed, "Ok, I'm sorry for slapping you in the face, you can be my 'boy-friend' well more like a friends, besides, I'm like 23, how old are you? "I just became 17 just this month." "Ok, then no weird relations." She said. "Yes, I'm no zoophile!" "Ok, then lets go back the resort area. I'm tired from all of that gun fight we experienced."
We walked back to the resort and she showed me her house, it was small from the exterior, but it was huge in the interior, everything looked cozy and modern. "Well, here's your last stop!" I said. "Thank you so much." She said a bit calmly. She then gave me a quick kiss on the cheek and a hug, nothing personal but still was pretty nice.

I walked back to the hotel, and passed the gym again for it was on the route to the elevator.



I met with Puss again, he said, "Man!"

"You look pretty beaten up? What happened" "Since when were you interested in my life?" I asked in a rather mean tone. "Sorry!" He exclaimed, "but as I told you, I would be there for anything in need, think of me as a partner." "Ok." I said. "But really, what happened out there?!?!" Puss asked.

I then said, "a man and four brawlers attacked me and my friend who's a girl tiger but not my 'girl friend.'" "OOHHH..." He then said, "you're in love!" I then said calmly, "no, not really, but she did give me a kiss on the check, but I'm not a zoophile so I'm not in love with her!" "Ok, Ok, Ok, well see you tomorrow!" Puss said. I also said goodnight and I went back to my hotel room and into my bedroom wondering why was I attacked, probably just a gang looking for terror. With that, I showered myself and went to bed. I was pretty surprised that my parents didn't worry. I guess that resort made them less tense.

A sword fight

Waking up, I knew this would be a great day. As I got up, I opened the curtains to reveal that once again, it's still sunny. I got myself dressed up and went to the breakfast area of the hotel. The area was so cool, it was transparent and there were some tubes that are actually part of an indoor water ride, there also many areas of artificial jungle areas that made the breakfast area look cooler, there were so many tables and many people. My family was already in the buffet area, so I ran to get there. I got out some of the scrambled eggs, some bacon, a triple decker, a croissant that I placed this exotic jam in it. And a smoothie made with the local fruits. Everything there was very delicious. As I looked up at the morning sun, I just felt a happiness I never felt in my life.

As it became 11:30 in the morning, I thought to go out and take out for a stroll, along that I was supposed to have a friend-date with the girl I met yesterday.

As I got out, Tigress was already waiting for me. She greeted me, the same I did the same and we both left.

As we were walking around the luxurious resort, just to find out that there was a large area filled with stores! There were so many Stores in this area. Shops for clothing, accessories, entertainment, etc.! I was so excited to explore this area that I never been to. Although I've been to many other malls, this one had gave me a very great sensation, the liveliness of the people. I really wanted to see how the GameStop worked there, especially with it being close to the pools.

But Tigress wanted to do other things, because this was a friend-date, so we went to Zara to get some fashionable clothes for her, good thing that there was a men's area too, or I'd go crazy there. After almost two hours of shopping, we got out and as we got out, we were about to check out another store.
But from the amidst from the stores, there lurked a few masked bandits, with black turbans covering their faces except for their eyes, they didn't cover their bodies but have black pants.

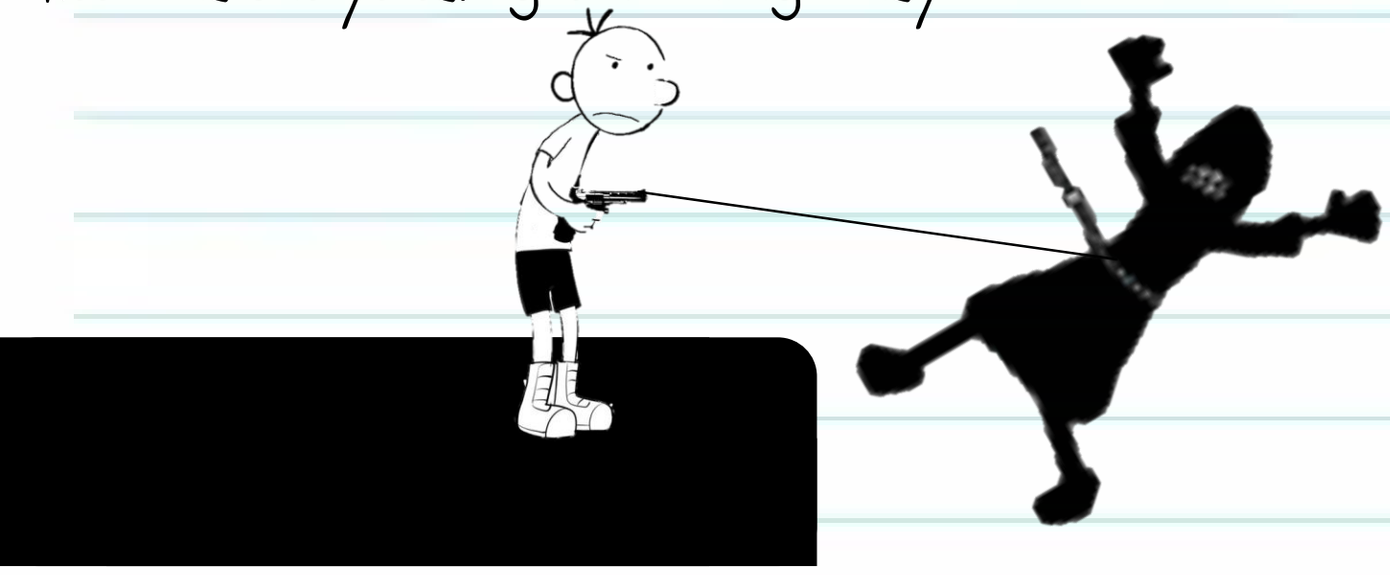
Their weapons were long rapiers. And the leader of the mini gang was "led" by Kuromi. She was waiting for the right moment to strike. Just before we could enter the other store, the bandits ambushed us from nowhere.

Now with my strength, I blocked the first attack from the first bandit with my arms and gave him a punch in the face. The second bandit came after me, I again ducked and he for some reason jumped over me, giving me the chance to kick his balls and he fell.

The third bandit came running to me so once again I dodged the attack and he accidentally stabbed the fourth one, me and tigress used this as our escape. But two bandits were following us. We both separated, I ran to the left, the same as the first bandit, while Tigress went to the right and the second bandit did the same. She ran to the area of the bathrooms, standing on the door of the women's bathroom. The bandit "trapped" her as he got out a small dagger. Tigress chucked and they both entered the bathroom, Tigress led him to the shower area and fled for her life without the bandit somehow not knowing she left. The other women started to scream and called him a pervert and beat him up.

I was running to the area of the hot pools, there were so many of these pools that made it hard to run, so I jumped and jumped. The bandit was also jumping along side me, but as time passed, he became weary and fell into one of the pools. I gave out a chuckle and With this I've then entered the area for the lazy river.

I tried to enter the ride but in front of me were two other bandits and another bandit looking a bit different, he was wearing a green turban but it was more high and it wasn't covering his face, his entire body was covered in robes which were all in white and red. He got out a sword that was more bulky and not thin like the rapiers the other bandits had. He swung it around and tried to look threatening. I got out my pistol attempting to do the classic sword vs gun fight from Raiders of the lost Ark, but before I could shoot, he led a war cry and the other two bandits came after me. I shot the first one, and the other tried to attack me while I was reloading. I wove my fist and it hit his chin, he flew out and landed in the water. The white bandit ran after me and I could finally shoot him and he fell into the water. The riders began to cheer and one yelled, "great acting Indy!"



But I couldn't stay any longer because I needed to meet with Tigress. I looked to my other side and began to run to the pathway which in the sides were filled with jungle forestation. As I ran, I heard a shrill shriek, it was Tigress being captured by the bandits. They placed her in one of the dirty clothes basket and placed the "door" on the basket, and ran to the laundry service area. I ran hoping to find her in that small building, but only to find a hoard of laundry service workers doing their job, everywhere was white and also filled with colored t-shirts. I looked around to find out that the bandits were not there. I ran out of the building to find out that they escaped and that they were entering to a part of the resort that was still under construction which I didn't want to enter because it was restricted access, but

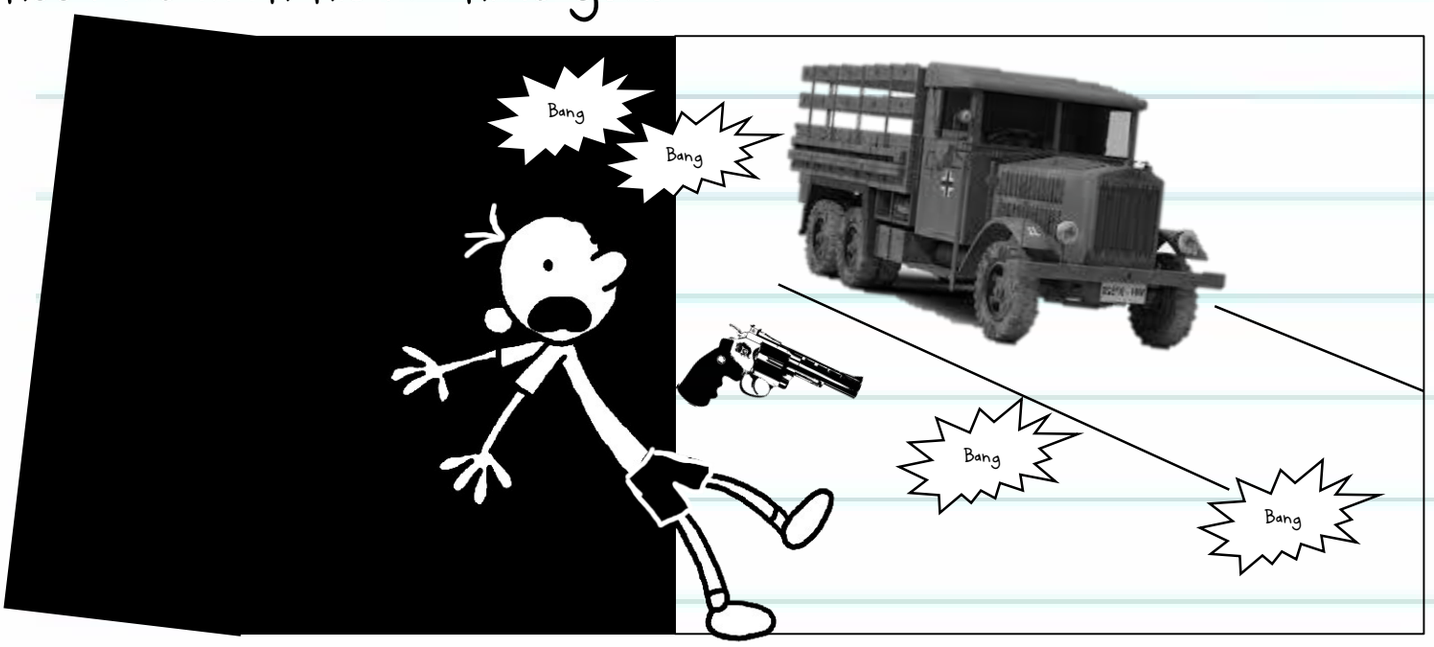
I went anyways. When I entered, I found out that there was no one inside, probably it was break time, but there was a military truck on the premises of the construction area. They brought the basket inside of the truck and it turned out that this was some kind of suicide mission for what was also inside of the truck was dangerous explosives. The truck began to move and one of the bandits saw me and got out of the truck. He then began to shoot me with his machine gun.



I hid and, reloaded my pistol and shot many times at him, but it was at the fifth that the bullet hit him.

I got out of my hiding place and shot the motor area of the truck. It began to swerve and it fell on its side, I ran to get Tigress out but as soon as I almost got there, the truck exploded. Well, I hope whoever is behind this is happy with these bandits ruining once again my life with their suicide mission.

What did they even earn with it?!?! They didn't even kill me!

I dragged myself out of the construction site with both the feelings of sadness for losing a friend and the fear that everyone will think that caused a terrorist attack. I went to find with my family who was chilling in the swim up bar. I came up and ordered a soda. Looking sad, someone swam up to me and sat right beside me. I looked to find a adult sized panda sitting right beside me and once again it was one of the crossover characters. Looking closely I found out it was Po.

I stammered for a while but before I could say something, he began to speak! "I know your fears..." He began to say ominously. But again before I could say anything, he continued, "you'll need a partner to join your adventure, think of me like an Aragorn, but as a panda. I'm strong and I know many friends, I think you know one of them. Small cat who is orange?" "Yes" I said. "He was there when I did some kind of training." I continued with some interest. "I have many people who are with me to find this spear. Here's a hint, you need to use the artifact to unlock a secret 'trap door' to get the first piece. The other two pieces we must find out." I stammered until my brain said that this was a good idea.

I gave a nod of acceptance, and he said, "great! Welcome to the team." And before I could say anything, he left. Looking a bit perplexed, some one came to me. This time I really couldn't believe my eyes. It was Tigress, how did she survive the truck explosion. When I asked her that, she just simply chuckled and said, "I jumped out when you shot the motor. You hid and you didn't saw me get out." Both happy, I ordered a drink for her and we celebrate for a while.

Figuring out

It was an afternoon in my room, the sun was gradually setting and I was spending it in my room. I was observing the artifact. It was a gold circular thing, with a diamond inside of it. The diamond is shaped like a spectacle glass. And the circular part was adorned with old testament angels and Hebrew letters.

I wondered what it was supposed to be used, how does it lead to the first part of the spear? While thinking those things, two unexpected people came in. It was the two that I met and befriended. Po first came in and greeted me and asked me what I was looking at. "Nothing just this artifact." "I think this can help." Said Puss, he got out what looked like a decoder, it was black and it had a scanner like purpose. I connected it to the computer and placed the artifact. And the computer began to decode the artifact. Most of the Hebrew letters were translated to this, "You must bring this to a placed filled with mundanity to unlock the first." Looking confused, I asked, "where can we find a place filled with mundanity? Las Vegas?"

"No, no," said Puss. "What they mean from a place filled with mundanity is this place is this place." He showed me a map of the Island. He then pointed to an obscure area of the map. It was a small island half the size of the resort's island. He began to say, "long time ago, there used to be a palace in this island, filled with this mundanity, but somehow, everything fell and no sound ever came out from that day. Legend says it was the spear that caused that place to go out." "So that means who ever went in placed it there." As we were looking at it, a big gust of wind blasted from my open window.

With that happening, I said, "I think some one doesn't want us to find this spear." I gave out a face of worry. But still continued to figure out the meaning of the artifact.

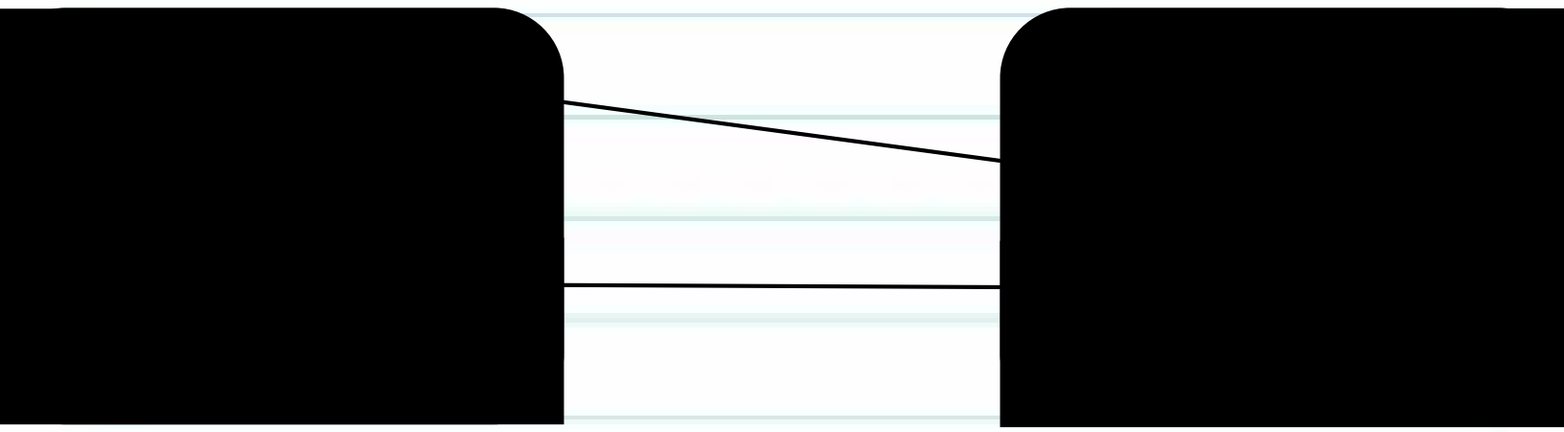
The secret dig site



As the next day's sun was setting, me and Tigress were walking on the beach shore. There were many people because there would be some kind of party. I don't know what it is about but there was a giant fire pit, many outdoor activities, and open grills. As we got nearer, we also got excited. Rodrick came up and exclaimed, "Hey there! Got a nice gf huh!" I just looked at him in the eye that gave out a gesture of acceptance. We got our space and saw many cool things, fun dances, karaoke, limbo, and lots of other fun things. It went like that until we all heard a gun shot.

It was a loud one, everyone began to scramble around. Luckily for them, no one got hurt

Me and Tigress ducked hoping not to get shot. I peered inside of the tall beach grass to see a soldier, all dressed in a black uniform and a black military hat. He had a sniper and was pointing at random directions. I got out my pistol and shot him. It was a clean hit and he fell. Rodrick came to me and asked, "What happened!" "I don't know, I'm going to check out." I then said. "I'll join you!" He then said.

Walking in the grass, we couldn't find anything, All I could see were the cabanas from the far distance, until I almost fell down some kind of pit. It was large, it wasn't even a pit, but an entire dig site. There were many soldiers in desert yellow uniforms and sand beige hats.

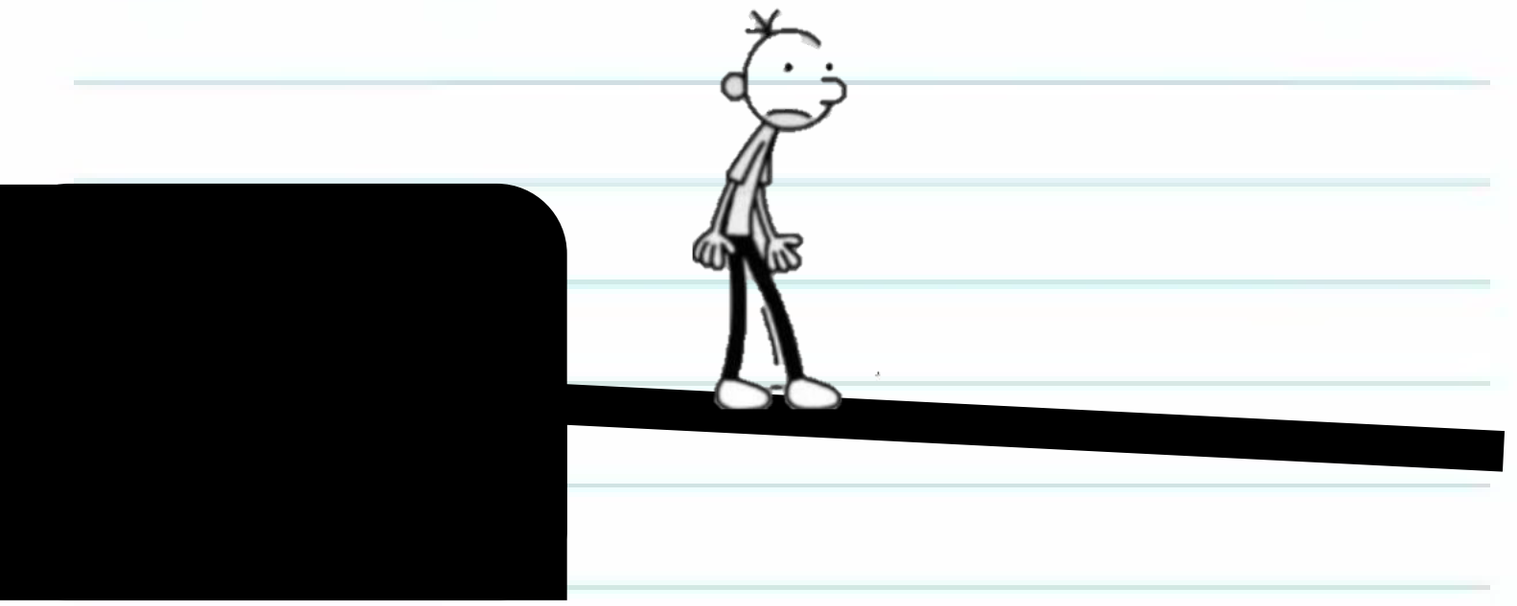
A general was looking at the soldiers who were digging. He also had a black uniform and black general hat

The dig side wasn't a flat land, it was deep. Almost 20 feet under the ground, there were many planks and mine cart rails everywhere, and it was like an ant farm, people were digging and talking.

As I entered the site, Rodrick came to me and exclaimed, "Yo! This could be very dangerous!" I ignored and continued walking on the planks.



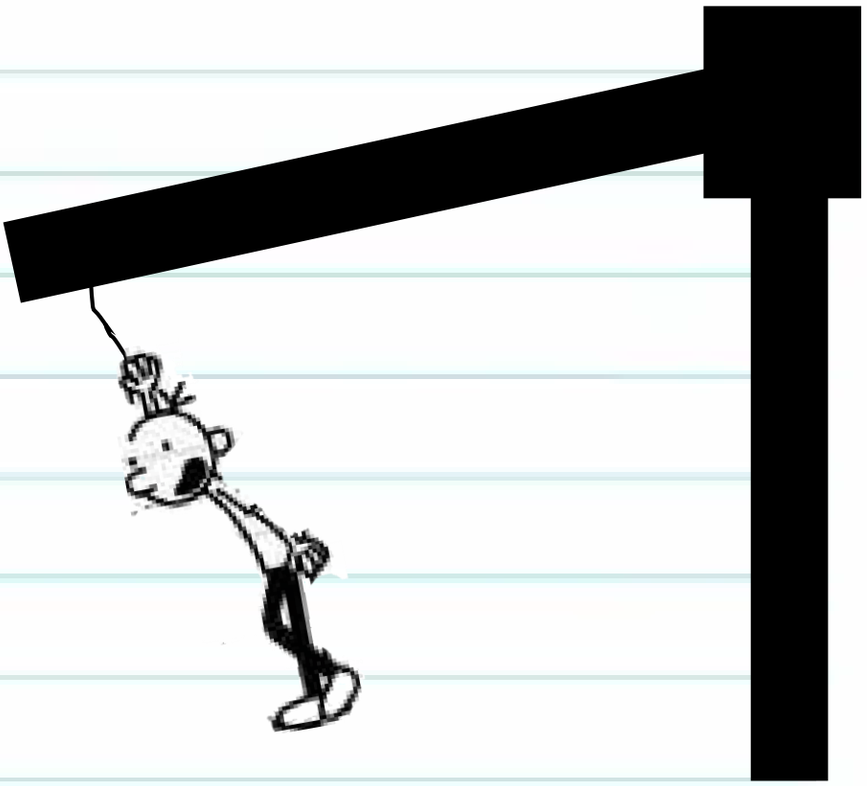
As I was balancing myself, I looked at the crowd hoping not to be spotted, but it wasn't and good because the general spotted me and yelled something in German, the soldiers began to shoot. I panicked and began to run.

The plank began to break, and I jumped before it broke and fell. I landed on one of the rails, and I found myself face to face to the general. He had a pistol right up my face, I looked with fear

Knowing this was the final thing I'd ever see. But before he could pull the trigger, the rails began to shake. In fact, the entire dig site began to shake. The supporting beams broke and the sand began to fill the empty crater of a dig site.

Many of the soldiers tried to flee but were buried in the sand. I jumped and held on to a wire from a small crane. The general tried to hold onto me but failed and was also engulfed by the sand.

Listening to the pleadings and shrieks from the general, I jumped again for the crane was also about to be part of the sand.



I fell onto the floor, thankful for not being engulfed by the sand. Rodrick came to me, somewhat relieved. He said, "Oh my god, how did you do that!" I shrugged also not knowing how I did it too.

I looked at the what used to be the dig site, now just a big barren of sand. "Someone or something doesn't want us to find this spear. I can feel it in my guts." Rodrick looking at the same view as I did nodded.

We walked back to the group who was still with their faces of fear. I looked them all at the eye and said with glee that the danger is gone and that some of the coast guards that are in charge of this area are looking at the situation.

Everyone gave out a sigh of relief. I felt that I was lying for I didn't tell the guards about the situation. But then I saw Rodrick showing three men, all of them had a blue soldier hat with the Isla's logo on it, and were wearing dark blue uniforms with a water resistance coat that was black. Once again, I sighed of relief and went back to where tigress was and continued enjoying the night.

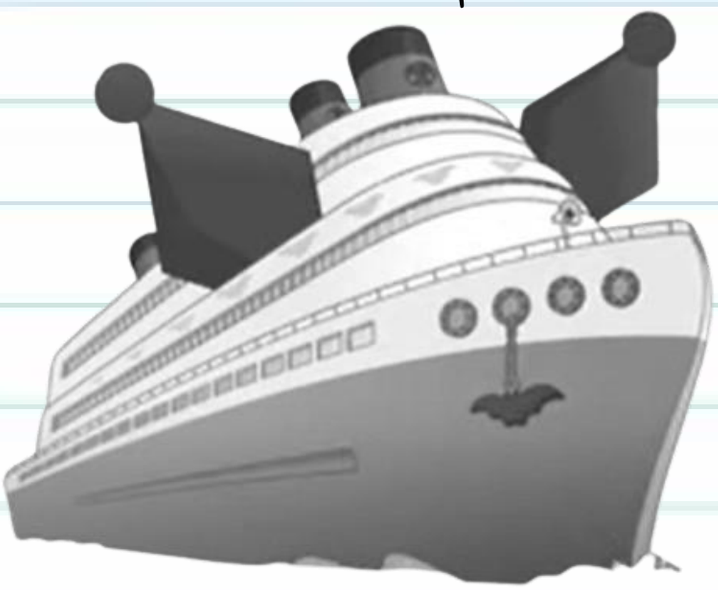
The Cruise Ship Ride

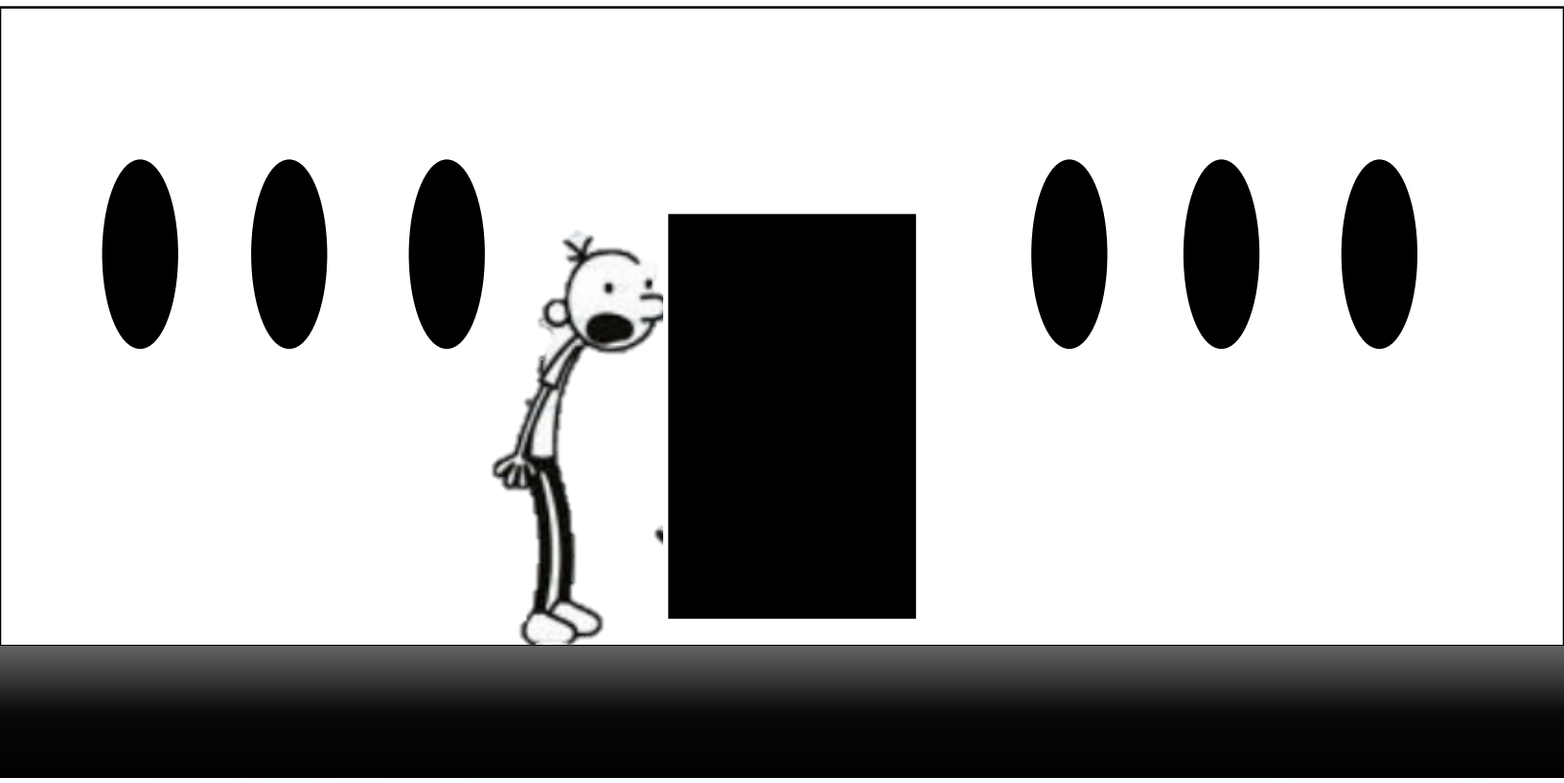


It was around 8 AM when I got a call from Tigress. She said that she booked a three day trip on one of the luxurious cruise ships. I said to her that most of them are just passing by. She sighed, knowing I was still new to this resort and said in a calm and somewhat laughing voice, "Listen, most of these ships are owned by private investors and the ships are themed from many shows and movies, and they are built by private and famous ship building companies. Most of them are exclusive only found here in this Island. And boy, they are great!"

I stammered, not knowing what to say. After three seconds of silence, I spoke up and said, "that's cool lets go!!!" She chuckled and said, "good, lets meet at the main ship terminal and lets have a great day!"

I got the ship terminal around 9:30 AM and I met her and I saw the ship. It was very large and cool looking, only that it was different than I imagined, it was white and many of the shades of Purple. That's when I realized that this was that cruise that I remember seeing from one of the little girl's iPad's while going through a mall back home. It was the Kuromi Cruise back from

Season 7 of the supercute adventures show. It turns out that Tigress went to many of the exclusive and luxurious cruise ships and this was still on her to-go list. I guess she saw how nervous I was so she said, "relax, this was funded by the Sanrio company and the ship itself was built by the company that made the famous Norwegian Explorer luxury ship, I think it was called like that. Plus it was made before Kuromi turned bad."



I looked at her and said, "wait, she was good?" She nodded and said, "Yeah, she was just enjoying her life until she disappeared, she would return the next day, but was wasn't the same."
I shuddered, but then she said not to worry and to enjoy the day for nothing would go wrong. I shrugged knowing that nothing would really bad would happen, and entered the ship.
I was amazed to see all of the cool things inside of the ship, just already in the main deck itself was decorated in this luxurious modern design style just like in Sanrio Puroland. (I watch too many travel videos ever since we were kicked out of the resort.) And also including a see through window showing many of the amenities that

The ship had to offer. There were so many of them that I couldn't even count them all. I do remember seeing were countless water and land rides, a casino, and a circular table which had 15 famous restaurants for a start. I think there were more amenities.

But before I could explore, I also wanted to check out how our room would look like. We both entered to the golden and see through elevator that's in the highly decorated wall. When we entered the elevator. I pressed the third floor because that's the area where our room was located and when I did, the elevator went zooming up!

After 10 seconds had passed, we finally got to our floor where our room was. I was somewhat excited to enter, but Tigress was ultra excited. She got out the key card and opened the door. "WOW!" We both said as we marveled at the room. It was really luxurious and modern room. Similar to a Marriot hotel room. But it was larger. The bed was with dark purple and white sheets. The walls were white and the lamps were shining a warm light. There

Was three rooms, one small dining room for when we want to order for to-go. And two bathrooms, one was for lavatory and body care needs while the second was a shower/jacuzzi hybrid along with a hot tub and a mini sauna inside of it. It was epic the area. And the best part was that our room had a view from the sea. Usually I'd feel nauseated whenever I'm in a ship, but this time I felt pretty good.

I wanted to go out and enjoy the ship so we did. The sun was setting and we were enjoying the water rides and the cocktail bar (I didn't drink anything alcoholic but drank a lite Aperitivo spritz with no alcohol.) And enjoyed the dances and music.

After all the fun, we both went back to our room to see the final moments of the sun setting and to see the moon rising and the twinkling of the stars.

But after a while I was tired. So I tried to sleep, but Tigress wanted to talk to me about something. I didn't know why she wanted to talk to me, but I listened to what she had to say

She then proceeded to talk about why she was with me. First she explained that she "broke up" with Po because of some "trust" issues and that I shouldn't think anything except that we're just gonna be friends.

I simply understood because I'm no zoophile so I just nodded. She then said "thank you for understanding, good night" in a soft voice. And we both went to sleep.

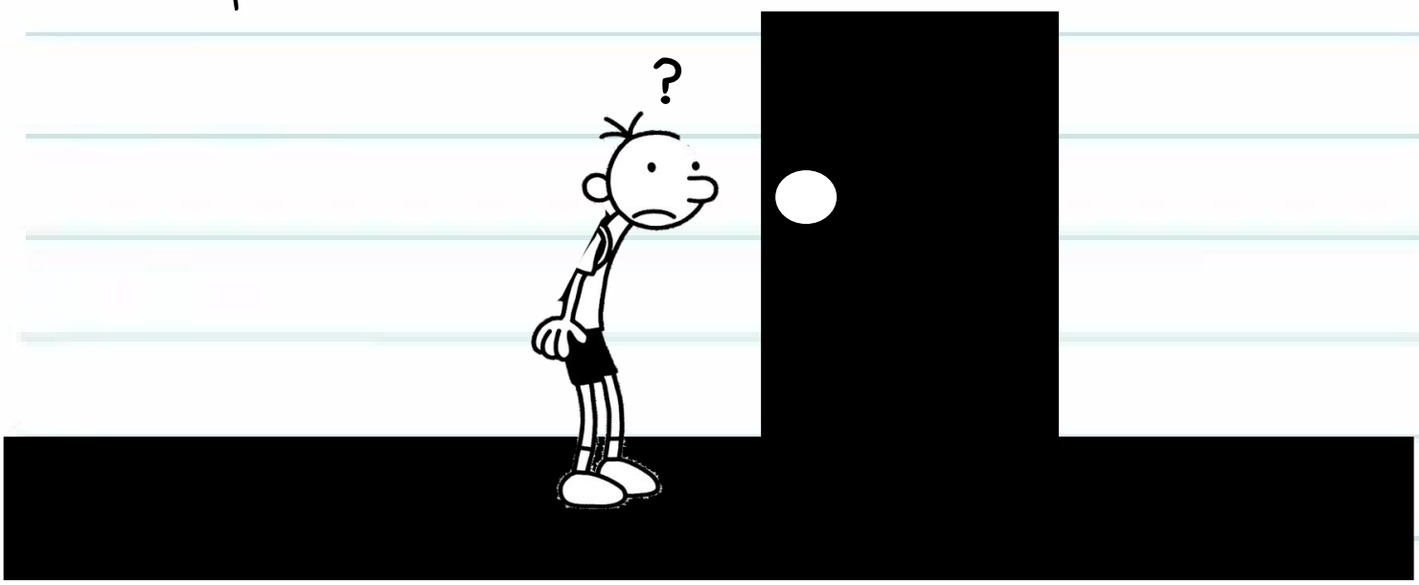
Chapter 10

The Submarine ambush

The next day, I woke up to the sound of a horn. I was confused for the ship wasn't supposed to move until the end of this day. Then I heard harsh German yelling and I knew I was in trouble.

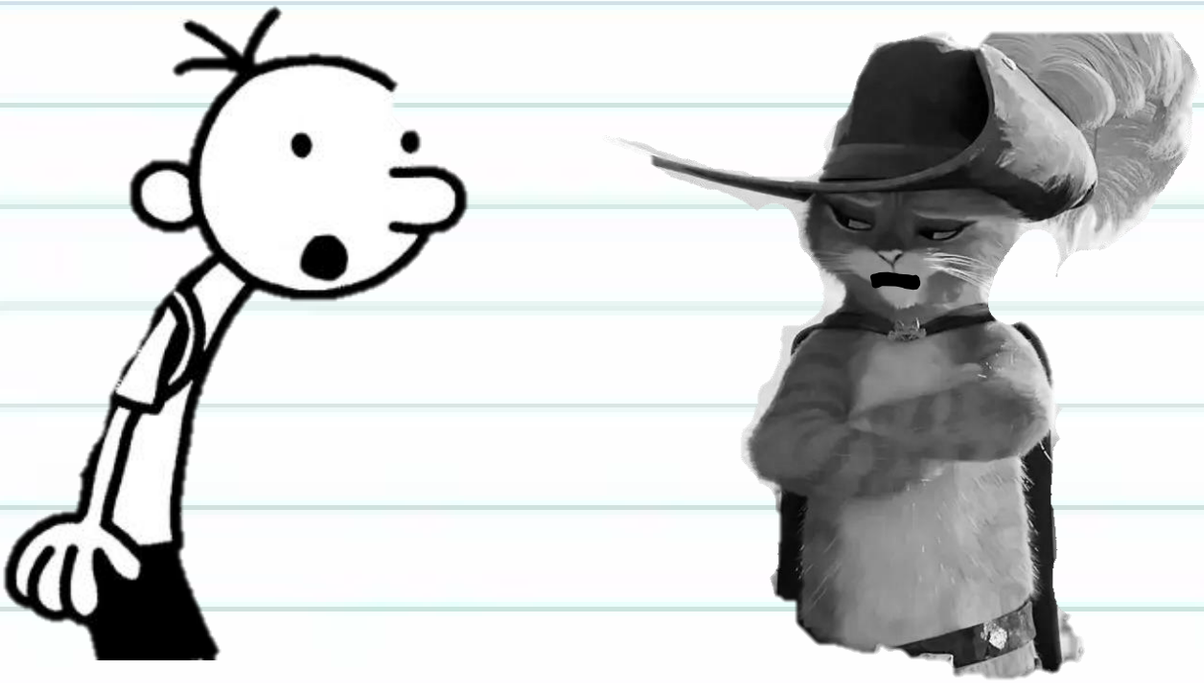
It turns out that a Submarine has ambushed the cruise and three patrol boats were nearing the ship.
They got to the ship itself by the time I got to the main area, the soldiers which were in olive green uniforms and had their famous swastika bandages were already lined up with their machine guns. Everyone was standing behind one of the ships walls. All trembling with fear. One of the ship's crew got out wondering what the fuss was about. I hid and looked at the horrid scene that unraveled. First the crew mate yelled "hey! What's with all the noise." The Capitan yelled, "Stop they'll shoot." But it was too late, the commander who had a black uniform laughed and commanded one of the soldier to, "place some lead in his brain." And the last thing the crewmate heard was the gunshots and the last thing he saw was a flashing light from the gun and the slight dripping of his blood. And that was the last of him.

From the horrific scene. I hid worrying that they'll think I was the one who caused their dig site to collapse, and that they were searching this place to execute me on spot. Turns out I can't even find a place to hide because the soldiers were guarding the rooms. Except for mine.

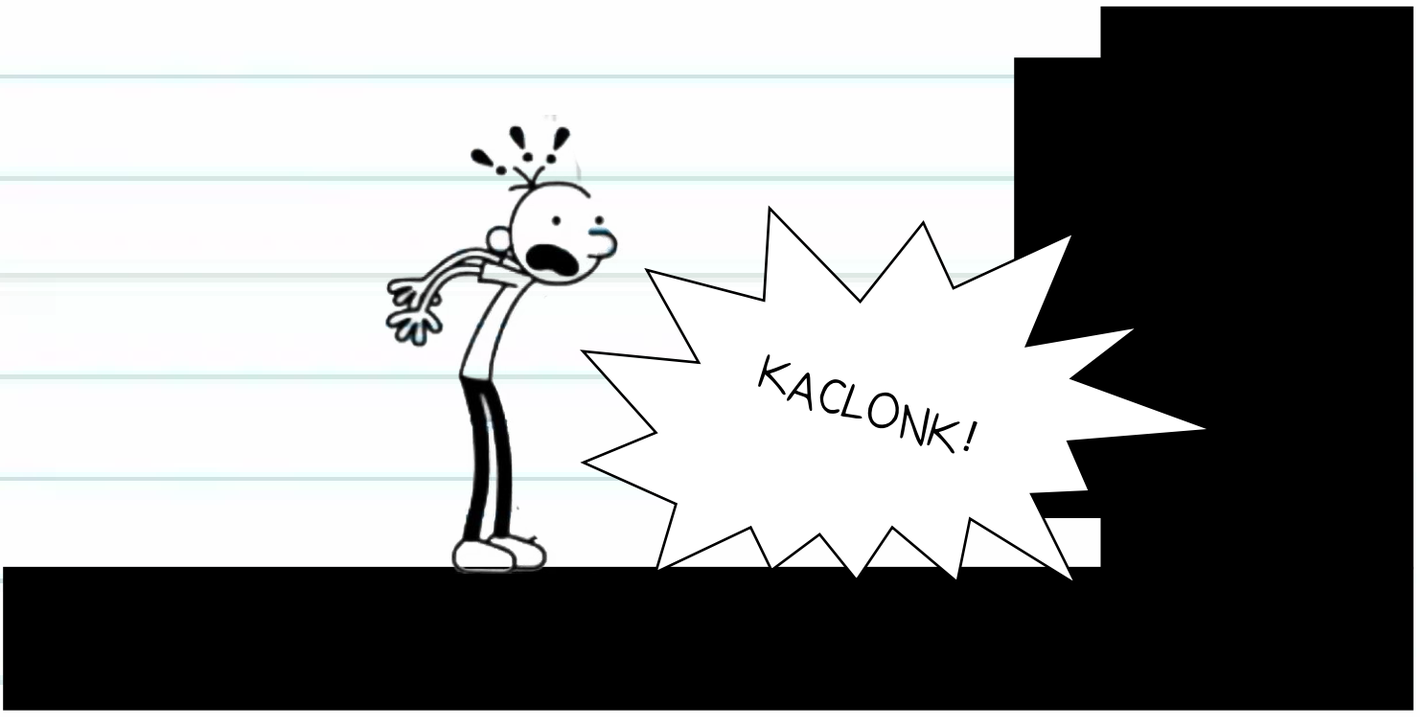


I heard a shout and the soldiers ran out of the floor and I found myself face to face to a overthrown room. Clothes, bed sheets, and other stuff on the floor. From that, I knew that she was kidnapped. I began to panic because these guys would eventually execute her. Then that's when I heard some bangs. It was Puss who came out of one of the closets!

He greeted and then said that my friend is in trouble and that he secretly followed me into the ship along with another friend of mine.



I wondered who that other "friend" of mine is. Until I heard another crash and saw Po coming out. And they both tumbled together



Now that we teamed up, we got out of the room and went back up to the main deck where all the chaos was going on. Turns out the soldiers did get Tigress and were holding her hostage on top of the main deck. The general was shouting something in German. We all snuck up behind him. But the thing is that I needed a disguise so before I could sneak up, I had to get a suit, so I got near a soldier and knocked him out, then I placed on his suit. It was sorta big, but I don't think they'll care.

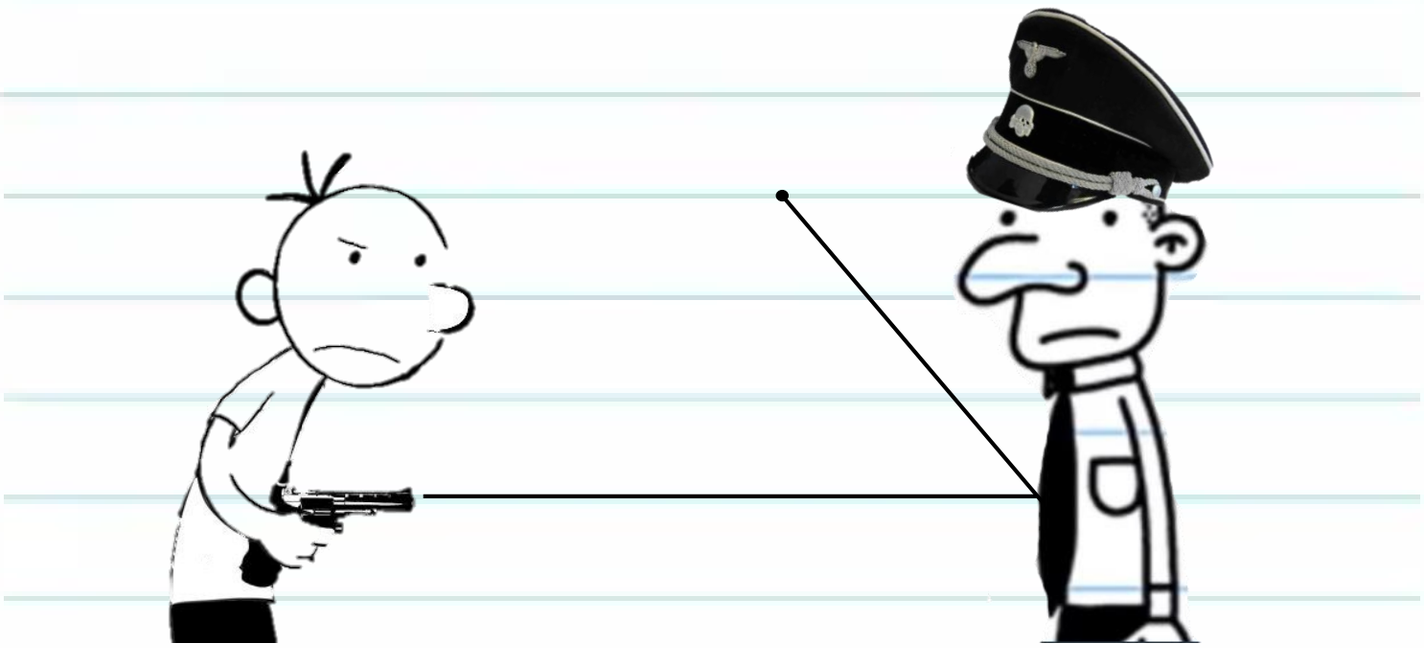
I walked up the general, he said hi, and I said hi back. But before he could shoot Tigress who is right now trembling of fear because even with her kung Fu, she should not defeat them all. Anyways, he turned around and I hit him on the head with a rifle that came with the suit. With that, the two jumped out of nowhere and knocked out two other soldiers. And Tigress was gone, turns out she also knocked out three other soldiers.

The crowd began to cheer as I got out a rapier sword and cut out the safety ropes of the life boats, then I opened that doors of the boats and everyone rushed in them. I was pretty surprised how empty the ship got empty. With the tourist out of the way

I can now enter the forbidden areas of the ship, aka, the computer and engine rooms. But first I needed to fight of these 5 soldiers, but there were only 2 of the green uniformed soldiers, the other 3 weren't with the flimsy uniforms. These ones were the SS soldiers, all in black and black helmets. The only similarity was the rifles. They then began running at me, one even shot at me, luckily it was a miss. I then rebuilt my courage like from last time and ran towards them.

The first soldier tried to hit me with the rifle, but I caught it midair and disarmed him. I then grabbed the rifle and hit him by the groin. He fell down, not dead but sorta hurt, but that wasn't my biggest problem, the second soldier came to me, but this time he had a good grip on his rifle. I dodged his rifle attack and punched him in the groin. Then he placed his arm around me in attempt to choke me. But then I stomped on his foot and gave a blow to his face. He tripped over the area were the life boats were supposed to go, and fell into the sea. Now with the two easy ones gone. I had to overcome the hard ones, that being the black uniformed SS men.

I got ready for the soldiers that were running to me, but then the two came in can helped me with some of the soldiers. It was a total "chaos" Po already defeated the first soldier in just seconds which really awed me. Probably it's because of the weight, I don't know but anyways, I was having a tough time fighting my SS soldier and the same went with Puss, they were to tough to fight back. But Puss did had a sword, but he used it three times and he didn't even give a scratch on the soldier's body. Turns out they were wearing bullet protection suits underneath. So I wasted all my bullets for nothing.



I tried to push him to the water but it was no use, he was too strong. Until he stopped moving, he then began to gag and then he fell down revealing who did.

It was Tigress. I was sorta relived that she wasn't hurt or anything. She then said hello in a soft, slow voice. I said hello to her pretty rapidly. But before she could say anything, we were both perturbed by a noise.

It was like a laughing noise. I said "come, we are gonna find out who's behind this circus." I rushed down the stairs leading to the mains corridors and then to the lower levels of the ship, that being

The computer room. But there was no one there. Then I heard footsteps so I know knew where they were, the main engine room. I followed the footsteps that then led me to them. Step by step, the sounds got slower and slower until I finally got onto the metal bridge held by wire ropes.

That's when I found out who was behind all of this.

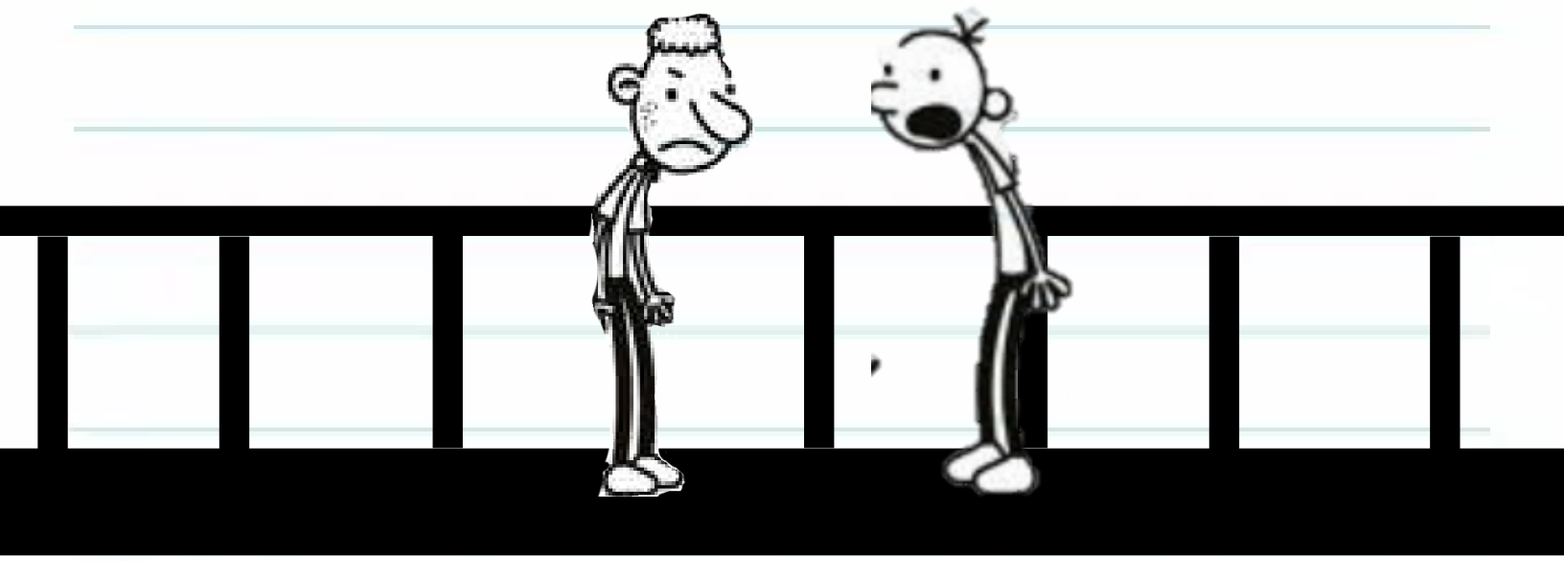
The teen behind the plan

Hello there, young one. You've grown so much ever since we met I don't really know your name... Is it GREG?, said a young kid around 14 – 15 years old. It took me a while to recognize, but then it hit me. It was that Kid from our last trip. Along with some other familiar faces. Kuromi was on the left, and on the right was Death the wolf from the movie I watched and that "furry" I saw back on the plane.

Along with it was 4 SS soldiers and Flippy. I was ok with the first two crossover characters because they're already evil in their nature. But Kuromi, this couldn't be true, yeah she may be sneaky and somewhat "mean" but not this type of evilness to join a group of people who supported mass genocide.

But before I could say anything, The Kid began to speak. He said, " back in 2017, he was looking for this spear but he had no luck. But before I could say anything. He continued "Me and my family began stealing other people's luggage and with some bribery and manipulation, I got 7 families kicked out of the resort, but it even with the 'enemies' removed, I couldn't find even a single clue of the existence of this spear or a secret room.

He then said, "It turns out that the calculations of the locations were wrong and the real resort that contains was this resort, La Isla de Paradiso.



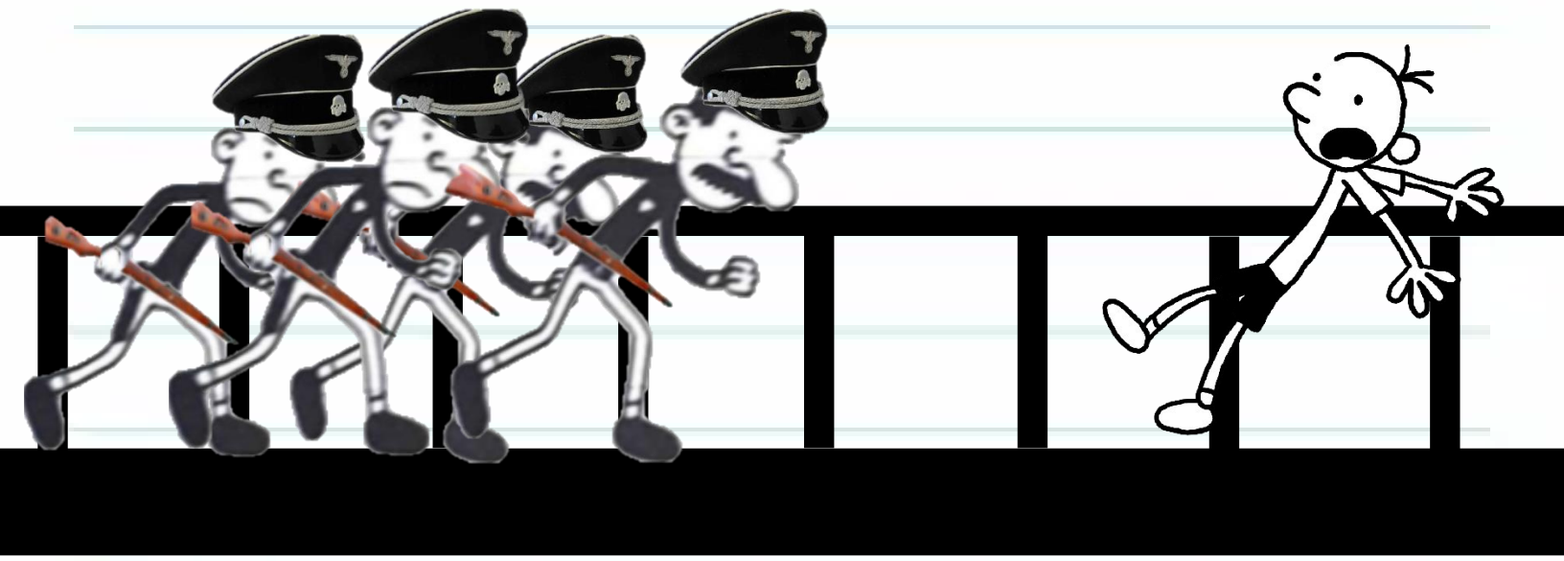
With that I Executed my best locator man because of this. This spear is so rare that any type of distraction can lead to another fail and I don't want to lose my other best men" I then asked, why us?

Why you, because I had a tingling on my spine, I knew you'd be a road block that'll prevent me from finding this spear one time or another. The same went to those other 6 families.
"For just a tingle in a spine! Our entire vacation was already ruined, and you had to kick us out. Just because you felt a TINGLE ON YOUR SPINE?!?!?!"

"Yes..." He said in a slow voice.

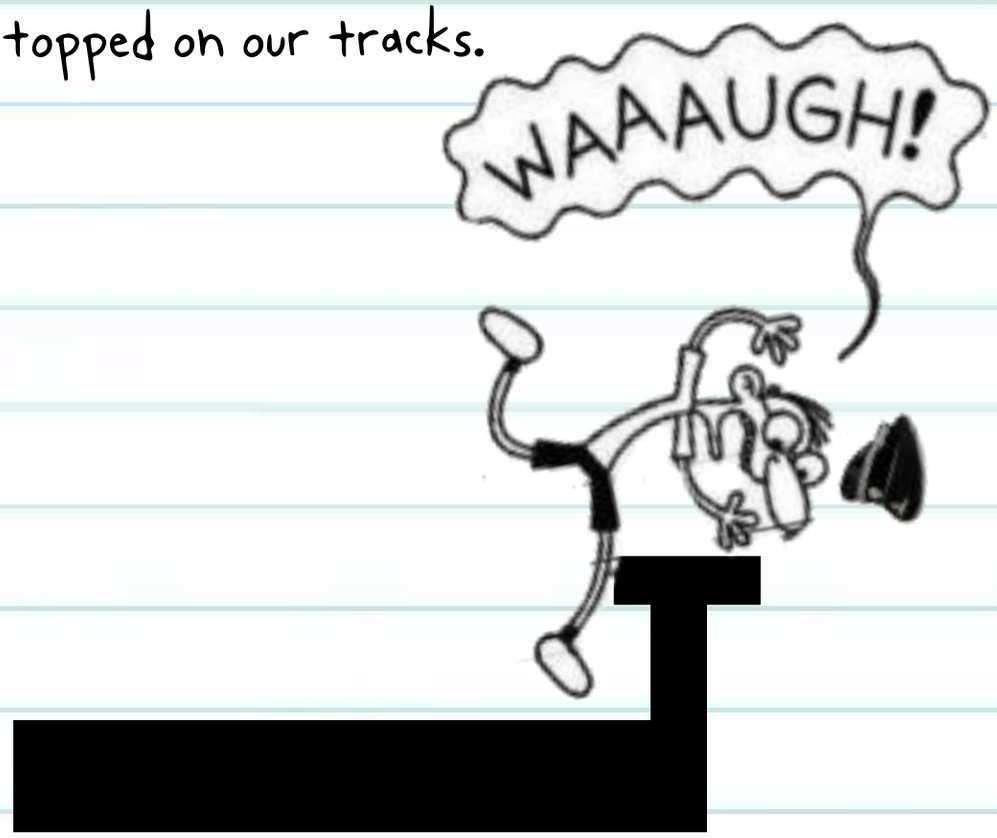
"That's absurd, like how do you know if it was just for nothing!"

But there was a long silence. He then shouted something in German and the next thing I knew, the 4 SS soldiers were after me! I panicked!

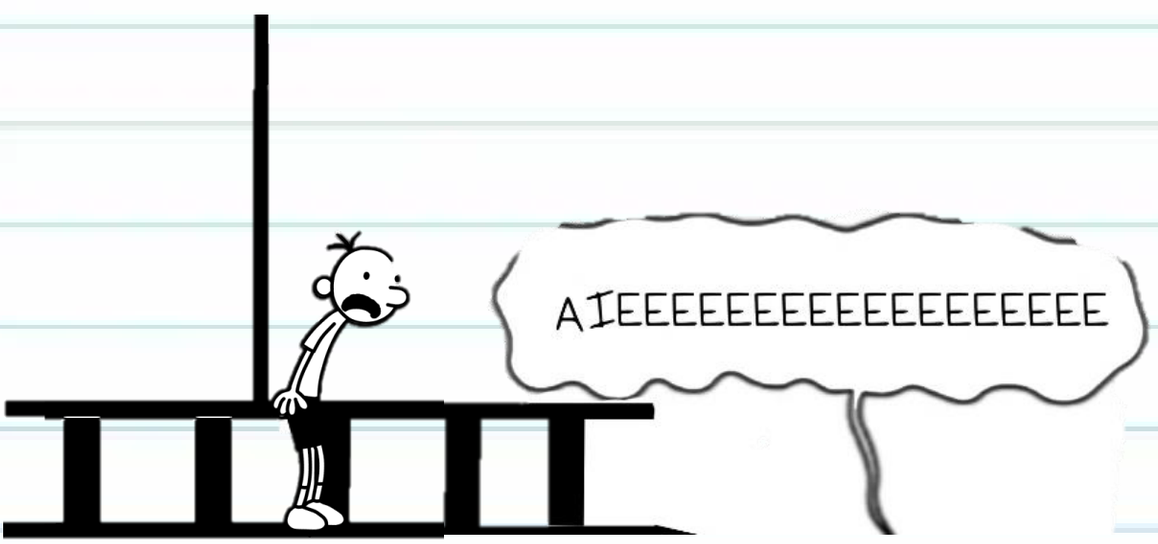


But it wasn't necessary because the crossovers came for help.

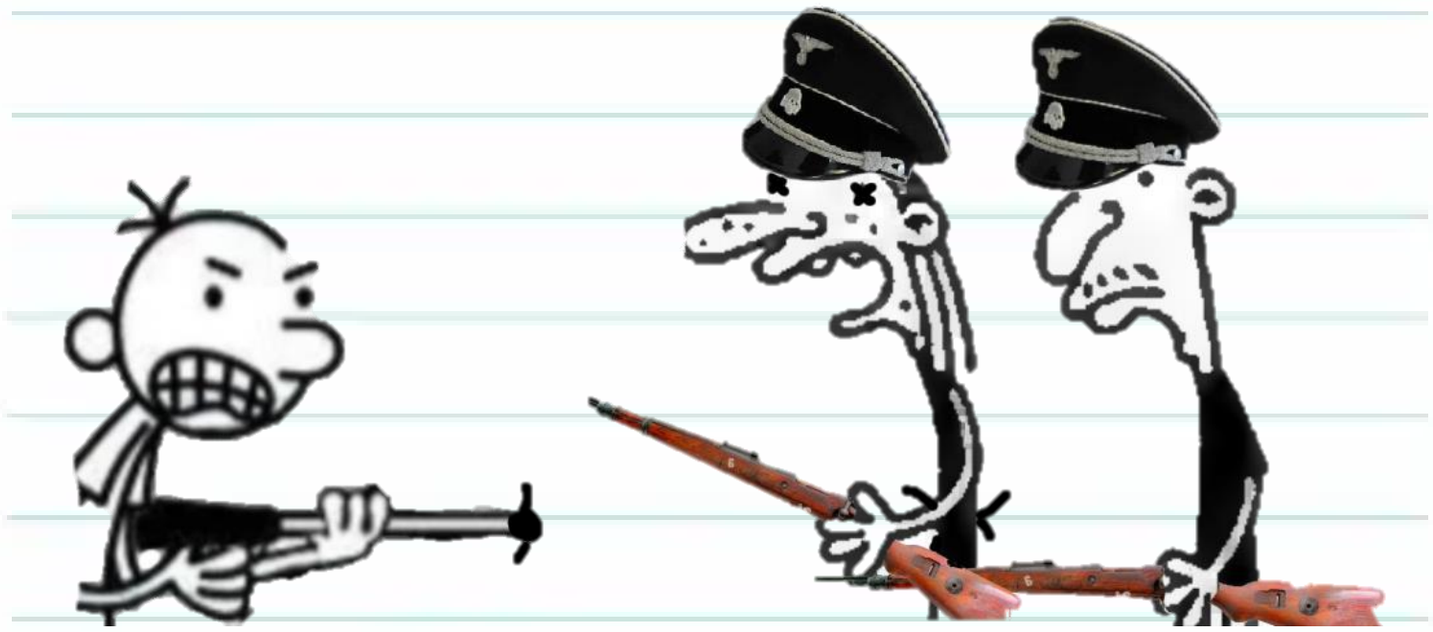
And I was really impressed when Tigress jumped on one of the soldiers and began choking him while piggybacking him and then releasing him and he fell into one of the tubes of a generator. After 5 seconds of silence, a loud shredder sound got released and we all stopped on our tracks.



I looked down and saw blood around the tube and I just hope I do NOT fall down there.



An SS soldier came running at me holding a rifle in his hand ready to shoot me. But I picked up one of the laying machine guns from of the soldier that fell into the generator and began shooting like a maniac.



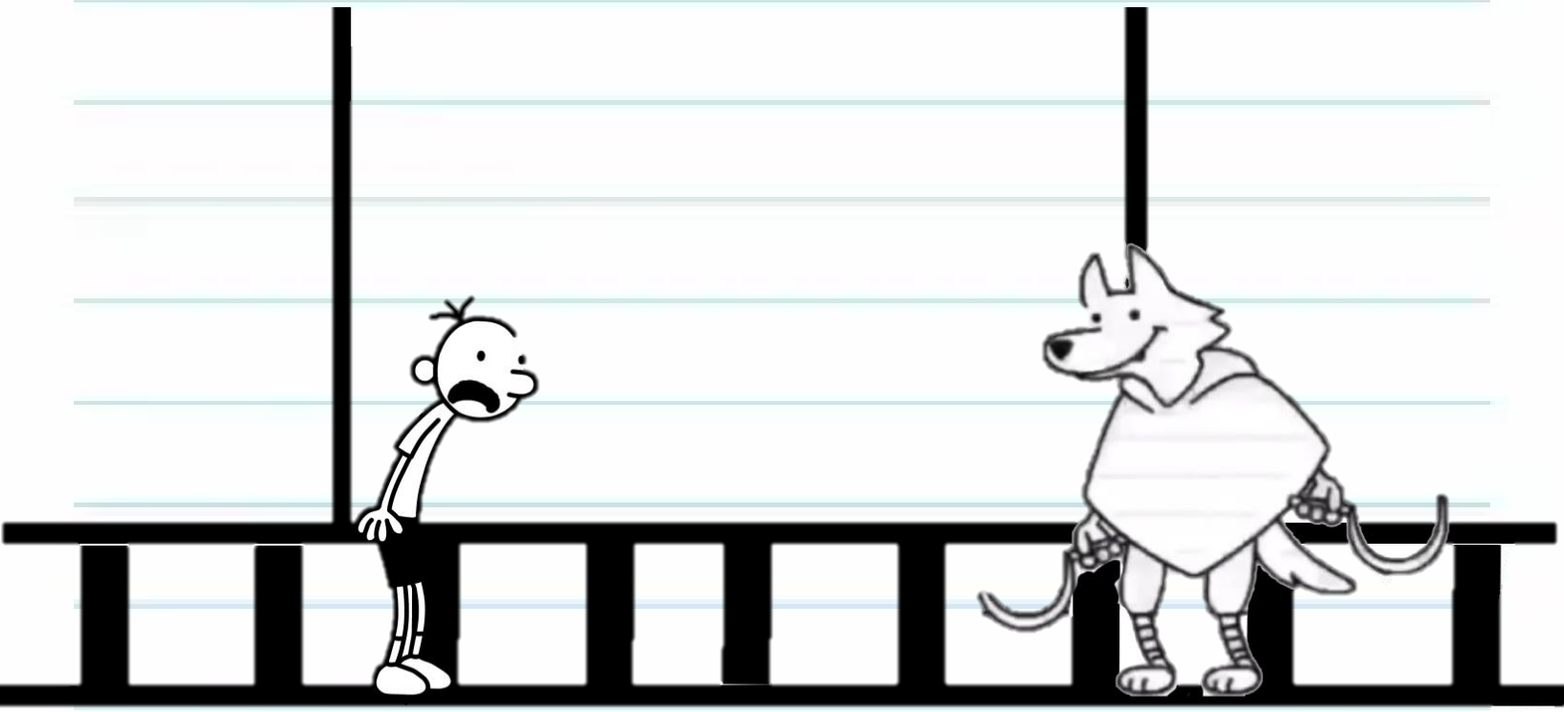
I think I took down 2 of them but before I could get to the third soldier, Po already took him down. I thought we were finished but two extra soldiers came in.

I almost fell to my death but luckily, I regained my balance and gave the first soldier a blow to the face.

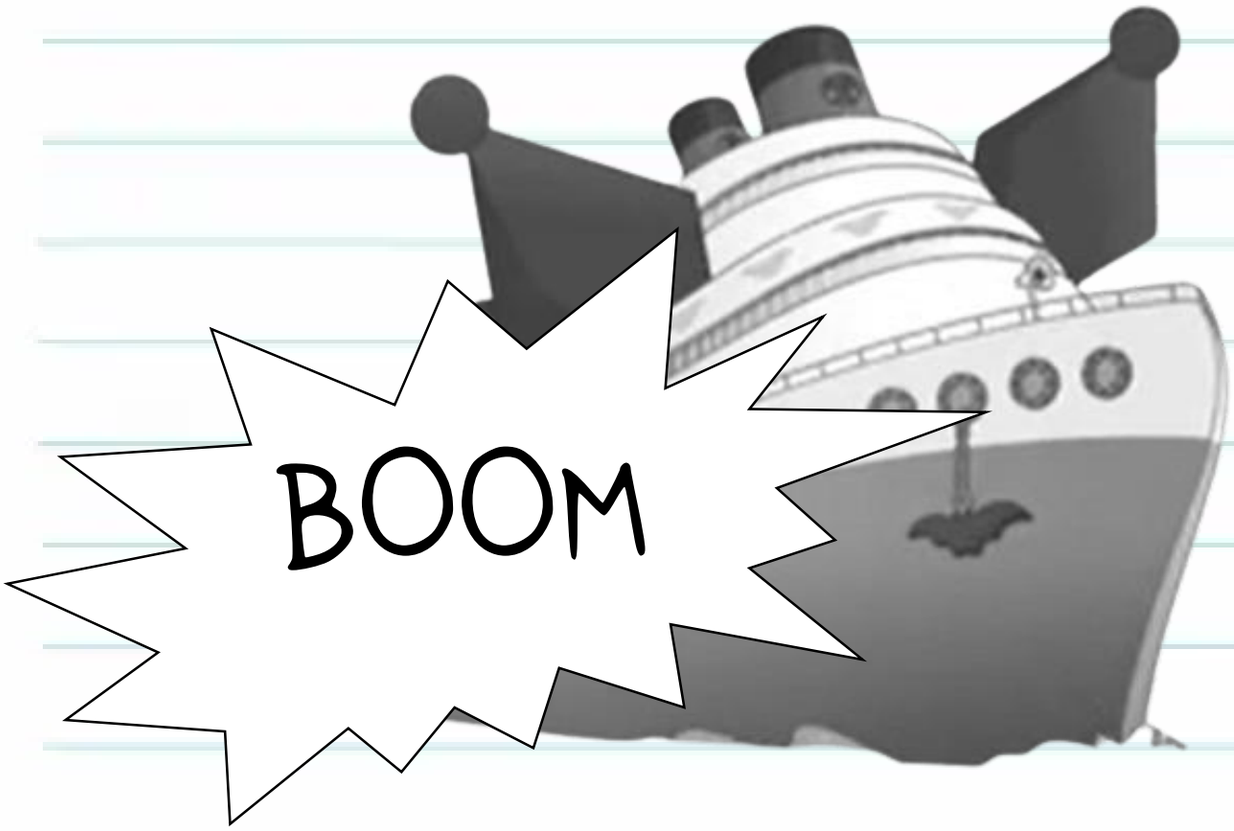
I went running to the second to the second one but Puss was already fighting with him.

When we were finished with the wave of soldiers. We were about to go back to the main deck and drive this boat back on shore.

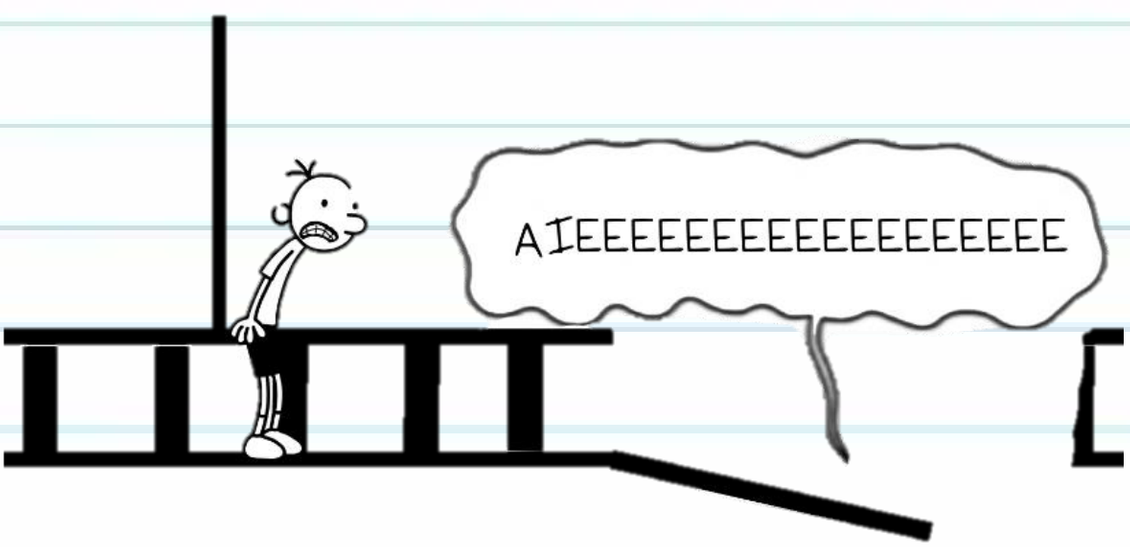
But there was some one blocking our entrance. It was death the wolf standing there like a statue.



He was also holding something on his hand. Looking closely, I found out that he holding his sickles like in the movie. But there was some kind of button. Then I heard slow beeps. That's when I found out that there were BOMBS in this area. I tried running to stop him, but as soon as I got near him, He pressed the button and a loud explosion along with flames filled the room.



After I recovered from the shock. I saw how the engine room was filling up with water, and I can see many fishes and other marine animals, including the BOX JELLYFISH! Death the wolf began running towards me, but the bridge couldn't hold on and he fell to his "death."



With that, I can assure you that all of the dangers were gone and we needed to find out how we can steer this ship back on course.

We all ran back to the main deck. I passed through the empty main deck where just a while ago was filled with people scared to death after their witness of the assassination of a crew member on deck.

I ran to through the corridors, knocked down the door and found myself face to face with a bunch of dead sailors and crew mates laying either on the floor or on the computers. I shuddered as I saw one of the crewmates looking at nothing for he was dead. I closed his eyes and continued on.

I came to the main computer sector where most of the controls for the motors of the ship. I was so confused which button to press. But Puss was so annoyed of my time taking choices that he pressed the power button and revealed that all the computers were plagued by the blue screen of death. Luckily I found a recovery disc in one of the shelves.

After 15 minutes of recovering the main computer. I just decided to play with some of the buttons and see how it worked. It wasn't long enough when I opened the steering program. There were 4 engine sprites on the window program and after 5 seconds later, a joy stick appeared. I then began to shift it at every direction, but it the ship wouldn't move.

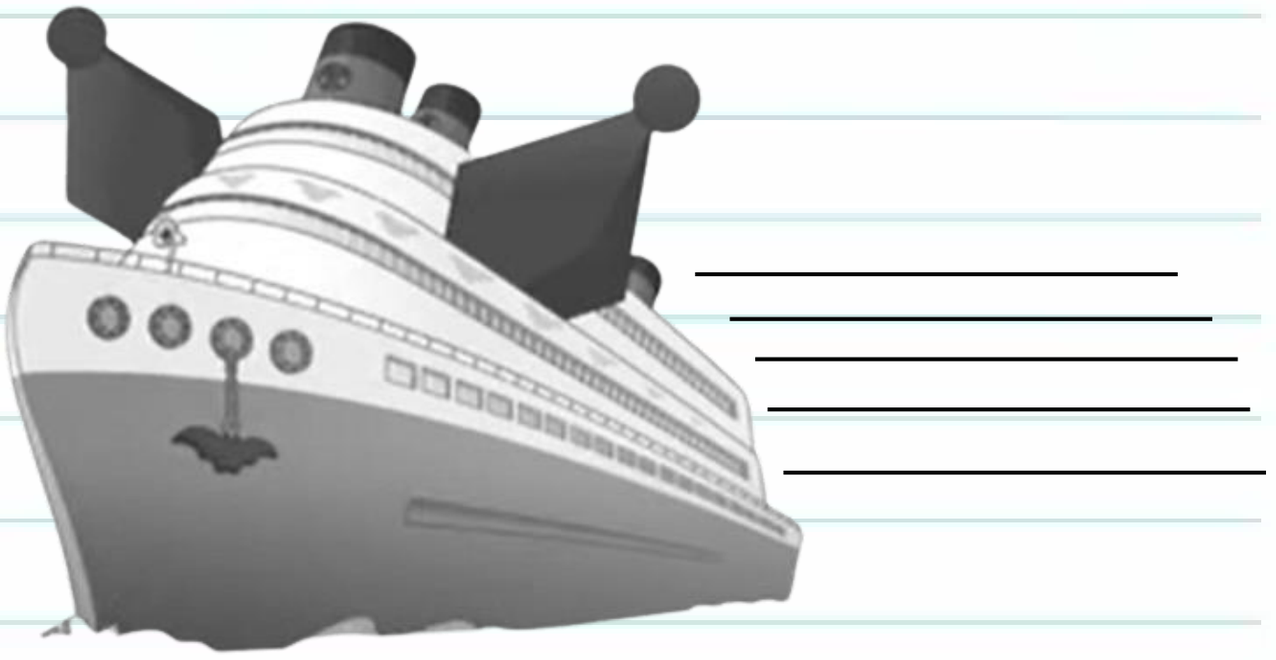
But Tigress made a few clicks on the computer and as soon I pushed the stick forward, the ship began moving.



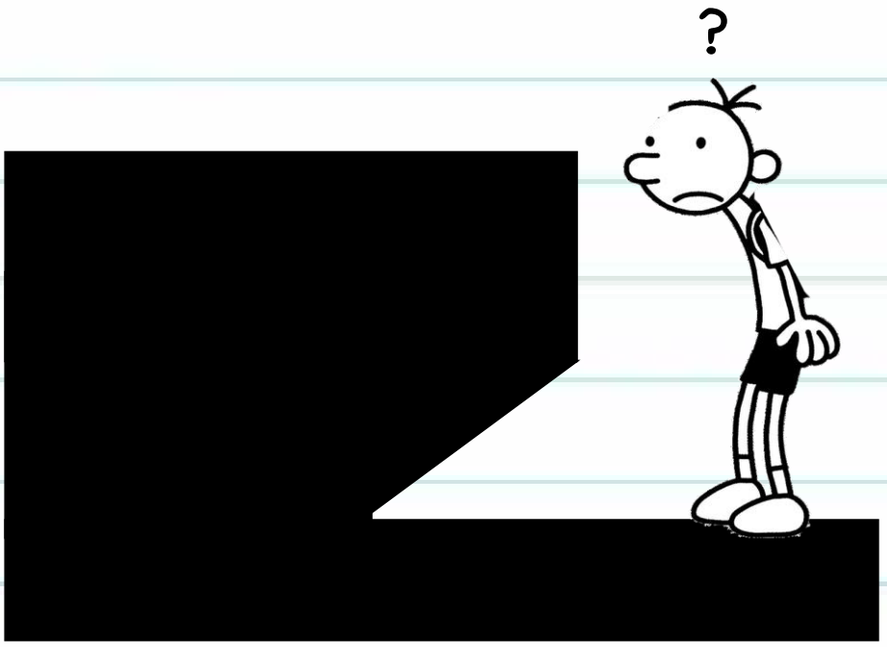
I hugged her in thanks of fixing it, but something was wrong. The ship was going way to fast. I could feel like I was in a time machine in full capacity.

I saw how the water of the abandoned pools were slushing everywhere and umbrella tables were crashing into each other. I needed to find out how to slower the ship, but it was already too late because Puss has tried what I wanted to try and he ended up

Breaking the joy stick. From that on, we knew were weren't going to survive because I could already see the beach's shore coming close.

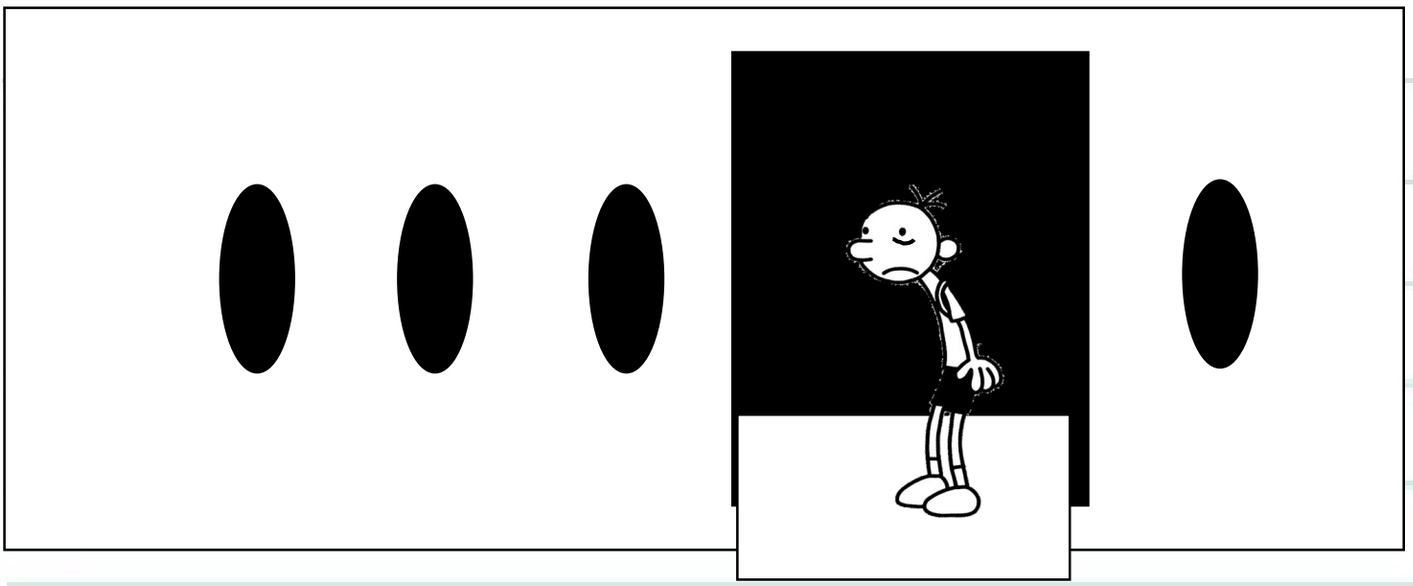
I held hands with tigress knowing this will be the end of this crazy adventure.

I closed my eyes and prayed that my death would be quick and painless. But before I could finish the prayer. The ship began squeak.



Turns out that the ship has hit the beach itself and I could hear people gasping and screaming and the sounds of running footsteps.
I looked and felt both happy and cheerful because I'm not dead but also afraid and nervous because that Kid would somehow find a way to make me look like some kind of terrorist trying to kill the peace in the resort.

So when I stepped out of the ship I prepared myself to see a swarm of guards to drag me and my family back home.
But something different happened this time.



There were guards but they weren't in defensive mode, but instead they were clapping. And even the tourists were cheering for me.

I Finally understood why, turns out that there were a couple dozen people on the cruise that either didn't know the cruise was hijacked or were locked in. And I blindly saved all of those people. But to prevent losing the chance of staying here. I just simply went with the flow and let everyone praise me.

Honestly, didn't care if I saved them or not, I was just enjoying the party that was rewarded with for saving them. They lifted me up and marched me around the resort cheering and filming me so I guess I will now be the new hit on social media. I can already see the title: "Greg Heffley, the tourist that saved a dozen people on a hijacked cruise."

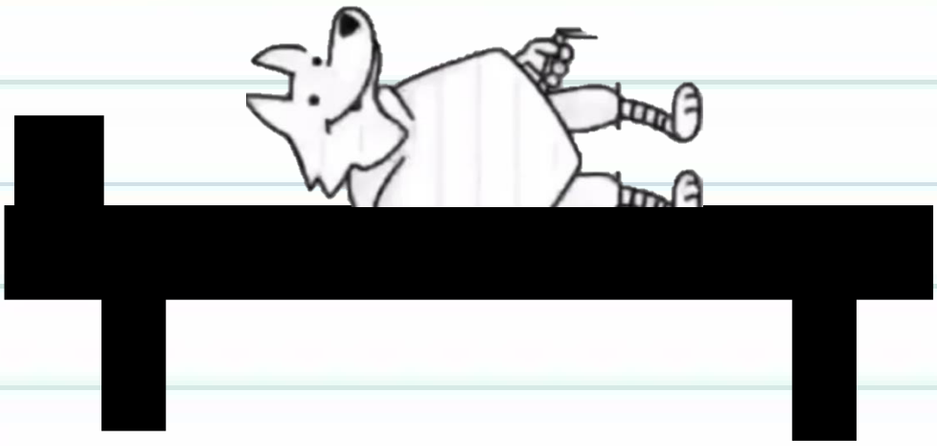
After the "party was over, I was pretty exhausted and I went and had another dinner with my family and this time, we were at the swim up bar." But I didn't care of all of the clam motion from other families because today I felt like a hero that has been seen!

Chapter 13

The Rebuilding of the Wolf



Even though I did save a lot of people, there were so many things I didn't understand:

1. Why does this Kid want to kill me, we just had a misfortunate meet when Manny opened their suitcase.

2. Where is the Spear of Power? And if so, why they chose this island.

3. Why did Kuromi join the bad guys?

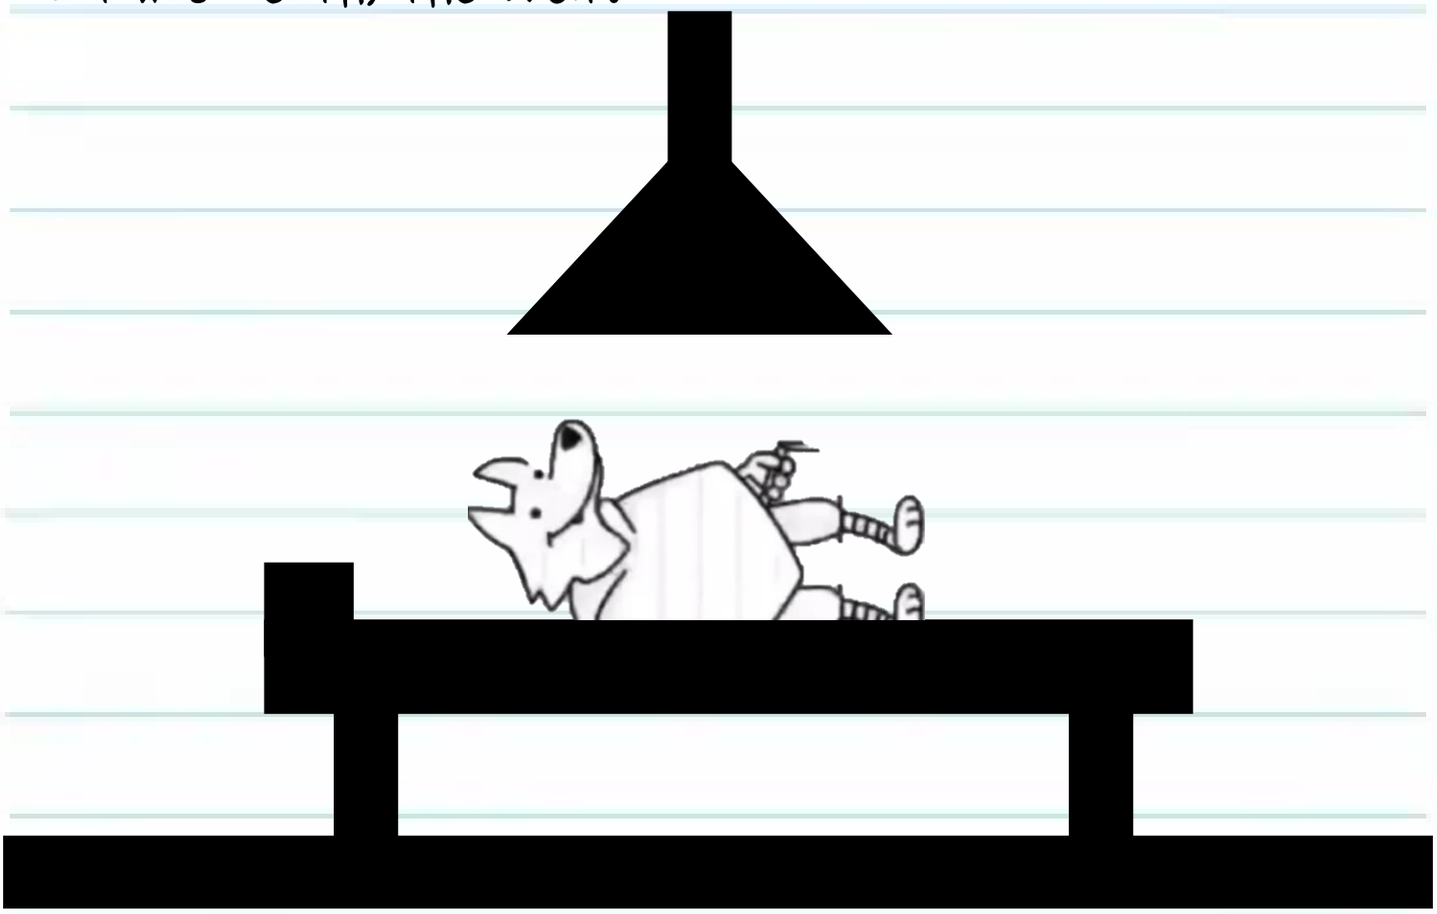
As I was thinking those thoughts. Miles away into the forbidden part of the island, deep inside the jungles of Isla Paradiso, a Secret base was under construction filled with all types of German soldiers that I've fought with.

The SS soldiers, the battle field soldiers, the machine gun soldiers. And generals of all type.

In one of the many rooms was a surgery room, and in there, was The Kid, and Kuromi and they were looking at surgeons doing

An operation on one of their high generals, the one I supposedly killed.

It was Death, the Wolf.



The Kid was looking over him, as the surgeons were removing every broken bone and every fried nerve. Fixing every mutilated organ and replacing everything with computer chips and motor sensors and what nots.

As the hours passed, he was finally done with the surgery, he arose as the new and rebuilt Death.

When he finally arose, he asked The Kid, "Did I kill him?"

The Kid in a disappointing voice responded no...

After a while of silence and he screamed from the top of his newly made robotic lungs. NOOOOOOOOOOO! He then began to kill all of the surgeons and guards around the surgical area.

The Kid began to grin and whisper to himself, "my secret weapon is done."

So I'm not going to put images for this scene because the way Death killed the surgeons was pretty gruesome and with this I have concluded the first part of a series that I have never thought would actually be true.

As I am finishing I am running out of ideas to add to this book, so I should now go to the next book and close this one with a

THE END.

In Diary of a Wimpy Kid: The End of the Wimp, Greg Heffleys world turns upside down when an innocent family trip spirals into chaos. What starts as a regular getaway turns into an epic 5-book adventure when Greg discovers a secret group with a plan that could end the world as he knows it. With danger lurking around every corner, Greg is forced to grow up fast and face challenges more terrifying than anything other wimpy adventures he had could throw at him.

This isn't the lighthearted diary you've come to know. In a story filled with shocking twists, intense action, and high stakes, Greg must navigate through gruesome realities and make impossible choices. Will he survive the most harrowing experience of his life, or is this truly the end of the wimp?
